CONVERTETH THE SINNER

BRETHREN, if any of you do err from the truth, and converteth him, let him know that he shall save a soul from death, and shall hide a multitude of sins.—James 5: 19, 20.

Begin at Home

IN THIS issue appears a story about the Home for the Friendless, landmark and pioneer among the charitable institutions of La Crosse. It is a story that represents, with an accuracy to which every one acquainted with the home can testify, the spirit of friendly service, of "home-ness," that makes the Home for the Friendless in no sense an "asylum," but in a very real and human way a "home." The Home for the Friendless is not "institutionalized"—it is a place where hard and fast rules and discipline give place to sympathy and warm-hearted help to those who need it.

La Crosse knows all of this. It does not, perhaps, know so well the remarkable economic achievements by which the home has been kept going in a time of increasing prices and ever-widening demands upon it. Our story, being concerned with human values, did not touch this phase of the matter, but we believe that the city should be informed of it. They should know that they may appreciate the careful methods by which the extremely modest sum of $4,630.09 was husbanded to cover all expenses of operation of the home, exclusive of repairs, for the last year. Inasmuch as the home cares for an average of 30 aged women and children at all times, the figures prove almost incredible achievement of keeping maintenance down to a cost of less than $155 a year for each person. Nor was it done by penurious disregard of the care and comfort of the Home's charges—we submit the picture of a healthy and hearty group of youngsters shown in this issue as evidence that the children at the home are as lusty and well-nourished as any to be found in La Crosse. But think! One hundred fifty-five dollars a year to keep a growing child or an aged woman fed, clothed and warmed! We doubt that there is any housekeeper in La Crosse who can do as much on as small a budget.

For necessary repairs to its building, which it set as new as it once was, the home spent $1,032.72 last year—with $200 still to pay. Roughly, the total cost, including upkeep and operation, was about $6,000 last year. It is a sum that strains the slender resources of the home, which has a small endowment of which it can only touch the interest, and depends chiefly upon voluntary contributions. So this year the Home for the Friendless will make a general appeal to the public for support—the first of the sort it has ever made. It wants the very small sum of $6,000—just about what it cost to operate the home last year. With this sum and the small fixed return upon its endowment, the Home expects to be able to meet the increasing demands upon it, keep up its building in good shape, and maintain the high standard of care that is its tradition.

We believe that the modest appeal will not fail of a speedy and hearty response from La Crosse. For the Home for the Friendless is peculiarly a La Crosse institution. It confines its work strictly to La Crosse folks who are in distress, in 34 years having cared for some 1,525 such people. Its sponsors from the beginning have been La Crosse people. It has long been close to the hearts of many in the community who have been directly in touch with its work, and it cannot be doubted that there are hundreds more who, when once they realize the importance of the Home and its needs, will be quick to place themselves in this group. It appeals to charitable folks not only as a necessary establishment, but as one of the most worthy avenues of giving, for there are few places, indeed, where such limited investment brings such returns in human happiness as this homey home enterprise.

So we do not feel it necessary to urge the needs of the Home for the Friendless, or labor the argument for its support. Its thirty-four years of service, its record of careful management, are enough, and more than enough. La Crosse, we feel sure, will not see the Home for the Friendless forced to deny its doors to any or all of those of our own who need its ministrations.

Drowned

CAN you swim? It is as important as knowing how to put out a fire or dodge autos. Deaths by drowning this year are high. More than 6000 Americans are drowned a year, reports Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. So far in 1922, your chance of drowning is about one in 10,000. Odds in your favor will increase as summer bathing season ends. Are you neglecting to give yourself or children the protection of knowing how to swim?

Wages

WAGES of day laborers in the steel industry are raised a fifth. U. S. Steel starts the raise. Other companies are following. Important news, for it means that the steel makers expect big business this winter, more jobs than men to fill them. You turn to the financial page and learn that selling prices of steel products average a sixth higher than six months ago. This makes you wonder who really raises the wages. Consumers.

Safer

AVIATOR Sperry stops his airplane within 50 feet of where it first touched the ground in landing. This happens at Farmingdale, L. I. It is a stunt. But it is nationally important, for it demonstrates that the day is not far off when an airplane can be landed safely in a small backyard instead of needing a landing-ground as big as a football field. Step by step, flying is being perfected, made safer. Future roads will be in the air.

Spending

LOYD GEORGE tells of a friend of his, traveling in Russia, sassed by a porter because the tip for moving a trunk was only 3,000,000 rubles. Inflation of currency may be both foolish and dangerous. But the Russians must be having great thrills tossing away millions and billions like so many nickels. Wouldn't it be fine, just for once, to go out and spend 1,000,000 American dollars in a night!

Bootleggers

PROSPEROUS Michael Kulik, on his way to a wedding, dropped into a bootlegger's and had two drinks. He fainted at the wedding. Next morning, woke up blind. Wood alcohol. Three years later, to a day, he gropes into the county recorder's office, says he is broke, has been evicted by his landlord. He goes to the poorhouse at Laurel Hill, N. J. Yes, "anyone can get a drink that wants it." Mike did.

CHURCH NEWS

Furnished by the Church News Association

The Episcopal church has a commission to determine if possible what best to do with women in relation to control of church affairs. This commission had intended to report at Portland, where a general convention is about to meet, but it says it finds itself unable to do so. There seems to be no settled conviction in the minds of Episcopalians on the question of the disposition of women, and so the commission is calling an unofficial conference to sit at Portland immediately after the official convention assemblies, and through it determine if it can what report it shall make, if it make any. One plan in mind was the creation of a separate convention for women. Another was the admission of women to seats with men in the existing convention. The matter is complicated somewhat by action of a commission to determine the question of ordination of women to the diaconate. The commission says it finds no general opinion on the subject, not even among women themselves. There is no move toward the ordination of women in the Episcopal church, in the sense that they are to be ministers, but there is universal recognition of services of women to many causes, and a desire for strict justice to them.

The Anglican bishops from the scattered missionary districts of the West Indies, who have just held their synod in New York instead in any of their own cities, say their churches are rapidly recovering from the effects of war. They think they suffered less than most other districts, although they did their share. Memberships in all dioceses are increasing steadily, according to reports made at the synod. Bermuda is attached to Nova Scotia, but the West India province includes Nassau, Trinidad, Barbadoes, Antigua, Jamaica, Honduras in Central America, and Oahu on the coast of South America.

Secretary of State Hughes, Justice Finch of New York and other members of the American company in Rio de Janeiro because of the centennial exposition, will and such vital relation between religion and the exposition as never before was witnessed by Americans at any South American capital. And the treatment by religion by the exposition authorities, and by the government which will welcome the secretary, the justice and others, is as broad as it might be found under similar conditions in any capital of North America. Europe. Since 1890 there has been complete separation of state and church in Brazil, and religion in all forms is barred from the public schools.

Assistance given by American Catholic men to the men of Catholic churches of Europe, in inaugurating social work and recovering from war effects, has just been shown in marked form by a conference held at The Hague. It was the second such conference to be held, the first taking place in Rome a year ago. The United States, France, Belgium, Germany, Holland and Hungary were represented at The Hague. It was found that rapid enrollment of young men has taken place, France furnishing no fewer than one hundred thousand. The influence of the King of the Belgians was marked. The Germans attended, and no conflicts resulted from association with Belgians and Frenchmen. A world secretary has been provided, and an office is to be established at Rome immediately.

The Rev. Dr. H. E. Woolver, assistant editor of one of the Methodist Christian Advocates, has just returned from visits to educational leaders in England, Italy, Germany, Belgium, Holland and France. To his surprise he found the theological seminaries of these countries crowded with students, large numbers of them young men who had served in the war. One school has an enrollment of 700—a number far in excess of the years before the war. It is found that as result of war young men of Europe appear to think more than formerly of their personal responsibilities. There seems to be little evidence of militarism, in the sense that young men desire again to go in trenches. There seems to be a disposition, certainly among Methodist following, to work against war.

What Is In Store For Germany?

(BY FRANK H. SIMONDS)

WASHINGTON.—In all the long procession of incidents which disclose the divergence of British and French policies since the conference of Paris in 1919, the recent speech of the French Prime Minister at Bar-le-Duc marks a distinct stage. It is, in reality, the ultimatum stage, for what was there said constitutes a definite commitment and thus narrows down the area within which in the future compromise can be effected.

In substance the French Premier has now formally proclaimed the doctrine that Germany cannot recover if she refuses to pay France, and that France intends, in case any temporary relief is granted to Germany, to take adequate gages of German performance. This means that, since Germany, with the design of escaping payment to France, has deliberately embraced bankruptcy, France means to enter the premises of the bankrupt and seize such assets as may be available.

Now make all due allowance for the element of bluff and appreciate that Poincare and Lloyd George are necessarily engaging in a battle in which bluff is an essential detail, and it is still clear that progress of an alarming sort has been made toward a crisis, which must spell the ruin of Germany and even of Europe. At London Lloyd George undertook to procure the fall of Poincare, both by refusing all proposals which might give the French statesmen any semblance of achievement and, even more, by means of the Balfour note, foreclosing in advance upon any real French gain in London.

Poincare, on his side, has now responded and his response carries with it real danger, to George, because, if France goes into Germany, then the whole campaign of the British Prime Minister to restore European markets must be consigned to the waste-basket. If Poincare must get results, which spell cash, for France, in her present fiscal straits, George must get results in the form of trade for his own country, staggering under the burden of unemployment.

Poincare's single course, having failed at London, was to declare openly and categorically for a German program which carried with it the extreme of sanctions. Only in this fashion could he satisfy his home public and avoid a fall of his ministry. In other words, when Briand was Prime Minister, Lloyd George, who liked him, was always ready to recognize French political conditions and permit Briand a show of success. Now, with a Premier whom he detests, George is following a different course, but the French answer is always patent.

Failure at London has, then, driven Poincare to an extreme position: his Bar-le-Duc utterance now nails up a pledge which he can hardly avoid carrying out. This pledge carries with it the occupation of the Ruhr and of the Rhineland generally, not for a limited period, but for that indefinite time during which Germany shall be both unwilling and incapable of meeting her obligations to France.

Unless all signs fail, then, we are on the extreme edge of the gravest European crisis since the signing of the Treaty of Versailles and there is no obvious line of escape. George, perceiving the fact that he could not hope to obtain from Poincare concessions such as he had been able to extract from the ex-president's predecessors, has staked all on getting rid of Poincare by blocking the French plan. Poincare, on his side, has countered by taking a line on which he will be followed by the overwhelming mass of the French public and by almost a unanimous Parliament, exemption being made for the socialists and communists who emphatically do not count in contemporary French politics.

In the hope of procuring a new French Premier, who would be more moderate and less obstinately opposed to British views, George, smarting under the defeat of Genoa, due in his mind chiefly to the Frenchman, has joined with the Poincare. But Poincare, in self defense, has been driven to adopt an extreme policy, which alike disarms home opponents and spells ruin for the whole German foreign policy.

Actually we have been seeing for the past six months a tremendous duel between George and Poincare, a duel in which the stakes are the master of Europe. When the conflict opened, at the moment of the Cannes conference which marked the success of George in asserting his control over Briand, the premier of that hour, British mastery of the political situation was obvious. Diplomacy at Washington had admittedly aligned an American sympathy with France. January, 1922, marks the high water point in the foreign policy of Lloyd George and at that moment he planned to go before the British people at a new election, based upon then existing conditions.

The prompt fall of Briand, resulting from the attacks of Poincare, changed the whole face of the situation. The refusal of America to participate and of Poincare to attend the Genoa conference doomed that enterprise. The fact that at the actual sessions most of the European states backed French, rather than British policies added to the extent of the disaster. Finally The Hague only confirmed the events of Genoa and a sweeping success for Poincare.

On the whole it was becoming quite clear before the London conference that under Poincare's leadership the continent was rapidly abandoning British for French views, that the ambitious plan of Lloyd George for a general revision of treaties and the rehabilitation of Russia and Germany at the expense of their recent victims had excited a general alarm throughout Europe and that the position of Poincare was being steadily strengthened at the expense of British influence. To get rid of Poincare, then, was the single avenue of escape for George from a confession of defeat personally humiliating and nationally expensive.

But the Bar-le-Duc speech is, as I have said, a formal and final answer of Poincare to Lloyd George; it narrows the issue, it illuminates the whole future. Now the British premier must consent to French control of the national mines and forests of Germany or see the arrival of a German failure to meet payments, which will automatically open the way for the same seizure and control of the mines and forests as would be the consequence of the grant of a moratorium. And if Poincare should now recede from the position he has taken, he would fall ever night, therefore his political existence has now been made the stake of the game.

We are, then, in my judgment, very close to the moment when armies will be again set in motion. The thing, little appreciated in this country as yet, is the fact that the defeat of Germany paved France in a position which she has frequently occupied before in Europe, but never since the first abdication of Napoleon in 1814. In the last analysis her power to sweep from one end of the continent to the other with irresistible armies lies beyond reasonable doubt. This was the situation in 1919, when the Paris conference met, this has been the situation ever since.

On the whole, moreover, French influence has increased quite steadily, if by influence one means comparable power. Events have bound Poland, Rumania, Yugoslavia, even Czechoslovakia to French policy, thus more than doubling the numerical strength of French armies, by adding the national armies of these states, armies which have been trained by French officers, are equipped with French arms, and penetrated by French military ideas. Belgium, too, has made a definite military alliance with France in the face of a hostile Germany.

In the meantime British policy, faithful to its tradition, has been struggling desperately to build a counter balancing force to this impressive and momentarily irresistible French array and at the same time has striven with the last energy to bring about a reduction of this French military establishment either directly or by indirection.

British failure in both respects is primarily due to American retirement from European affairs. In their attempt to control France directly and bring about a reduction of French military strength the British could only succeed provided they were able to exercise financial pressure, and they could only exercise financial pressure if America adopted their ideas, since we and not they were the financial masters of the world at the close of the war. Had we stood squarely with the British either in the league of nations or at Washington, insisting upon French disarmament and promising in return financial assistance, France might have yielded, at least she would have been forced to make concessions.

As it stands, however, Britain has no financial influence upon France, because she has nothing to offer, save the cancellation of debts which France can only pay with German coin and Britain is most anxious to prevent such collection of German coin for a multitude of reasons, some political, but most economic. The supreme British hope has been that the United States would join in a cancellation of inter-allied debts, thus canceling the proposal with an insistence upon French disarmament. Now, this hope having gone glimmering, the financial weapon does not exist.

At the same time the British have sought desperately to erect a balance of power on the continent. But to achieve this end the rehabilitation of Russia and of Germany have been essential details. Assured only of Italian support, due to Italian jealousy of France and resentment of French policy in middle Europe and in the Mediterranean, Britain has been without ultimate force to restrain. More than this, the British campaign to rehabilitate Germany and Russia has aroused the apprehension and resentment of all the new and newly aggrandized states of middle Europe, which have seen British policy openly suggest the mutilation of their frontiers.

Failure here, then, has been complete as in the maneuver to enlist America. Neither Germany nor Russia has been rehabilitated and so far from finding a counter weight to French continental power, the British have seen Belgium, Poland, Rumania, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia drawn more and more closely to France by reason of British policy. British proposals to rehabilitate Russia and Germany by concessions, such as the return of the Polish share of Upper Silesia to Prussia and of Polish acquisitions in the treaty of Riga to Russia, solicited for German minorities in Czechoslovakia and British claims in Bessarabia, along with Anglo-Belgian intimacies, have served to influence and even direct the policies of the little contents and of Poland.

If French armies should tomorrow enter Germany, not a single state in Europe would be able to interfere effectively and only Italy and Russia might have any desire thus to interfere. German resistance would automatically bring Poland into the field, while any Russian operation to assist Germany by an attack upon Poland, would insure Rumanian action along the Danube. Moreover, if France goes into Germany, it is not open to question that Belgian troops will march with French.

But since Germany has deliberately adopted a policy of evasion of payment by inflation and by other devices and as a consequence has now arrived at a point where her present inability to meet obligations is undeniable, France must either resign herself to fiscal ruin, by reason of German failure and to a consequent elimination as a great power, since she will be overwhelmed with the burden of war reconstruction or take such action as will enable her to collect something, however small, and at the same time escape the perils of a German recuperation.

One of the designs of German war policy was to deal with France that she would never be able to oppose Germany again. The destruction of French industry was systematically conducted to this end and if France has to bear the costs of reconstruction, while Germany escapes, Germany presently comes back, Germany will, within certain limits, have won the war. She will have been victorious absolutely, so far as France is concerned and can in the future take her revenge upon a France no longer capable of resistance.

If, on the contrary, France goes into Germany now, she will hardly escape fiscal ruin, but Germany will not only be ruined fiscally, but also economically and politically. Thus France, however bad her own state, will not have to face the immediate peril of a Germany, freed of war burdens and eager and able to reverse the decision of the world war and regain her old position in Europe and in the world.

This was the real problem at Paris, but British policy there was misled by the presence of Mr. Wilson and by the apparent intention of the United States to remain in Europe. The British staked everything upon continuing American assistance and deliberately exchanged French for American friendship. They calculated upon a community of ideas as between Britain and the United States and upon a resulting financial strength which would restrain France. At the same time, by the Anglo-French-American treaty of guarantee, French security was to be assured and French financial difficulties were to be met by loans and by cancellations of debts.

The vital mistake of British policy has lain in the failure to recognize that our withdrawal was final and that the subtraction of our financial and moral influence left the British incapable of still pursuing successfully a policy which aimed at restraining France and at rehabilitating Germany. This failure has led to an insistence upon French acceptance of British ideas without the willingness or even the ability to make suitable payments therefor.

At the Washington conference, the British made a final and desperate effort to bring about American recommitment. The number of issues of the conference, namely disarmament and Pacific policy, were minor matters in the British mind. What really counted was that Anglo-American friendship should be so cemented that American support for British European policies would be gained and Franco-American friendship so impaired that France would stand isolated when she went back to the next European conference.

What England hoped to accomplish at Washington was to arouse American sentiment against the French army and enlist American financial strength to exert pressure upon France to reduce her army. This was the supreme stake at Washington and, for a moment, the British thought they had succeeded, although they were grievously disappointed when the question of land forces was dropped. It was while he believed America was persuaded, that Lloyd George laid his plans for Genoa. Mr. Hughes' refusal to go to Genoa was in reality a "knockout" for Lloyd George, particularly when it coincided with the disappearance of Briand and the arrival of Poincare. It was a defeat on the east and the west fronts at the same moment.

I wish it were possible to make clearer to the American audience the fundamental fact of world politics, namely that unless we support British policy in Europe, France is and will remain for a considerable time the dominant power in Europe. And this means exactly that unless we use our double control inherent in our past loans and our present capacity to lend money to France as a weapon to control French policy, there is nothing in the world at the moment which can achieve this end—and we would be not seeking to wage war, either desirable or undesirable.

At the moment there is only one great power, in the real sense, left in the world and that is the United States. We were and remain, in the larger sense, if not the actual winners in the war, the only nation whose resources and strength were not grievously impaired by the long strain of the conflict. We hold the purse strings of the world. By using our power we can within certain limits dictate policies to the rest of mankind—at a price. But if we resign this role (and I think we have resigned it) then, so far as power is concerned, it reverts with the French army. The single question has been for a long time, whether France would find a leader who dared to use this power, under any circumstances. The Bar-le-Duc speech would suggest that Poincare is such a man. At all events he has now taken a stand which will prove fatal if he fails to perform where he has promised.

No greater misconception was possible than that which was based upon the assumption that as between France and Germany the war ended with the armistice of Reims and with the treaty of Versailles. The fact that Germany in attacking France and in conducting the kind of war she did conduct upon the French front deliberately sought to erase France from the rank of great powers without regard to the decision of battle. And the success or failure of German policy is not to be measured by the technical outcome of the battlefield shock but by the comparative speed of recovery of the two nations and also by the comparative degree of recovery.

In both cases this question will be decided precisely as Germany does or does not pay the reparations fixed at Paris. Moreover the whole struggle of France and of Germany since 1918 saw the end of battle has been to collect and to evade respectively. And this is a continuance of war, not a beginning of peace. You say the thing quite accurately if you say that Germany having tried to ruin France by devastations during the reparations war has sought to evade all reparations in peace, to the end that the wartime ruin shall accomplish that end for which it was wrought.

But who could be foolish enough to believe that the nation which had by incredible sacrifice won the war, aided to be sure, but yet hearing the greatest burden in victory having become the supreme military power of the world, would consent to hang up her sword, let her army be demobilized and permit her assailant thereafter to escape paying and, having escaped payment as a consequence remain economic and political strength far more rapidly than the victor thus transformed into the victim? Certainly no one familiar with the history of France through the centuries.

There are now, it seems to me, just three things which may happen. First, and most likely, French military action in Germany, which however restricted at the outset, is destined to lead to Berlin and beyond, and probably lead to another partition of Germany, to the destruction of Germany as a nation, to a destruction achieved by the separation of Bavaria and perhaps other South German states and the consequent supremacy of France in Europe at every point.

The second possibility, much less likely, is the fall of Lloyd George and the arrival of a British Premier, Mr. MacDonald or Lord Grey is the only one in sight who would seek to restore the Anglo-French Entente and by such concessions to Germany as the way of guarantees and of debt cancellations, together with British assistance in French policy, designed to compel German payment, prevent extreme French action. Frankly the present trend of British public opinion does not encourage any such hope of success, but it remains an obvious possibility.

Finally, it would still be possible for the United States to enter the European game to bring France the aid she needs and remove those apprehensions which are the dominating factor in French policy. But in cancelling debts and in extending loans we should also be forced to take up the question of such a reduction of French military strength. That we would do these things in any case seems to me out of the question.

In sum, then, failing a change of circumstances and of policies in Great Britain and in the United States, it seems to me all European conditions are such that the only way to a comparatively early French military action against Germany and to a protracted period of French supremacy in Europe is the adoption of such a policy and upon an alliance with all the other considerable military states of the continent.

To military strength will be added economic because, if France aided the Ruhr to the same and Poland completed the seizure of Upper Silesian mines, France and her ally will hold a practical monopoly of the Continent's coal supply, outside of Russia, which has already insured her control of the iron resources of the mainland. To these must be added the oil wealth of Poland and Rumania.

If France obtains the supremacy on the continent she will ultimately lose it, for the same reason. France is predestined to be brief. But for a brief time, measured by a decade or even a half-century, France may be able to dominate Europe and in that time be consequences to political Germany and to industrial Britain will be almost beyond apprehension. It is worth noting, too, that events have been pointing for the past three years with ever increasing clarity.

The Liberals of the world have been preaching for all of this period the necessity of isolating France and enabling Germany to recover from such isolation for France. Yet the last time France was isolated, namely in 1919, it was isolated for a period of two years and during that period her armies occupied every capital from Moscow to Madrid. And at this moment, in the face of the French situation from that which she occupied on the eve of Valmy and Pichegrault and Napoleon, there is nothing to compare with the French situation of 1919.

French public sentiment, which naturally dominates the French mind, is now in the Paris days upon the two cardinal necessities of France, reparations and security. In making reparations and in securing France's position with her allies France has consistently sought and as consistently failed to achieve either objective. But it has always been true that France had to choose between the loss of her allies and the abandonment of these two essential aims. France has chosen the former and has abandoned the latter in an unmistakable fashion. Bar-le-Duc, moreover, was the French answer.

Until French troops begin to move nothing is actually irrevocable. Therefore there is still a narrow margin for negotiation. Yet But it seems clear that we are now in the presence of the end of the Paris days. Once French began the dispatch of those ultimatums to Petrograd, Paris and Brussels, which were the unmistakable evidence of the approach of the Deluge. Once French public opinion resolves upon action, decides that by action alone can France be saved from extinction, then Poincare and his successors, pledged in advance to march, French public opinion too, will be forced to march. Such real hope as remains must lie in a possible change of British policy, but the almost insurmountable barrier to such a change is the fact that British public opinion has been educated to expect a different solution and to oppose the French compromise. Thus, precisely at the last days of July, 1914, while statesmanship seems impotent and public opinion blinded, success or failure is being decided, which already begins to appear irrevocable.

MILK PRODUCERS OF CHICAGO ZONE TO POOL OUTPUT

Six Thousand Contracts Signed up by Producers' Co-operative Marketing Body

CHICAGO, Ill.—The Milk Producers' Co-operative Marketing company announced Saturday that the six thousand signed contracts required by September 1 under the plan to market co-operatively the products of Chicago's dairy zone, have been received. The signing of the contracts closes a three months campaign by the Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin farm bureau federations, the American Farm Bureau federation, and the Co-operative company. Twenty-seven counties in the three states are embraced in the co-operative movement which furnish the entire milk supply of Chicago and also supply several hundred creameries in the district.

"The outstanding idea on which we intend to merchandise our milk," said J. F. Williams, president of the marketing concern, "is that the milk producer is entitled to one-half the consumer's dollar, and that an increase in the retail price is unnecessary in order to pay us this half. The farmer receives less money for owning his cows, and caring for them than the milk wagon driver receives in Chicago for doing nothing more than carrying bottles from his wagon to the back door."

The farmer now is obtaining less than four cents for every quart of milk. The other eight cents represents the spread which the middleman gets. It is the highest spread of any large city in the country. We producers are out for more money, but we are opposed to increasing the price to the consumer.

The organization will not go into the retail business, it was said, but will sell its products to the dealer.

PRISONERS BREAK JAIL

WAUKESHA, Wis.—Two prisoners, Ernest J. Futhy, 23, and George Kael, 25, held in the county jail here on a charge of robbing a Soo line freight train, escaped from the prison Friday night by cutting their way from their cells and through iron barred windows and then dropping thirty feet to the ground.

NEW ORCHESTRA OPENS SEASON AT MAJESTIC THEATER

YOU might not be able to tell it by the thermometer, but the fall and winter season at the Majestic theater starts today, with vaudeville Sundays and the last half of each week as a leading feature of the policy to be followed. In addition a first-class grade of feature pictures will be offered at every show, whether it's a vaudeville day or not.

Even more interesting, perhaps, will be the new orchestra which makes its debut today. Morris Langstad, well-known violinist with long theatrical experience in the Twin Cities, will return as leader, with Wilbur Holcomb as first violin. And there will be a brand new acquisition in the person of one of the most noted jazz drummers in the country. He is Urban L. Johnson, a brother of Ted Johnson, the Majestic organist.

Urban Johnson is an expert at the traps, a virtuoso on the xylophone and marimbaphone. Until recently he was playing as a member of the Mardi Gras Sextette in vaudeville. His last engagement was at the Strand Roof Garden, in New York city, and prior to that he did a year on the Orpheum vaudeville circuit and a year on the Keith time, the leading Eastern vaudeville wheel. Mr. Johnson will make his debut, starting Monday, with a xylophone solo with orchestra accompaniment. "Salem" is the selection.

Other members of the Majestic orchestra for the new season will be Max Streck, trombone, Kenneth Gavin, cornet, Mrs. Wm. Wendling, piano, Emil Krentz, clarinet, Joseph Reese, bass, and Ted Johnson, organist.

Sunday's vaudeville bill for the Majestic will include the following acts: Solis Band in classic music; Jack Dolk in "Still Polking Along"; Howard and Hill in a piano, singing and talking number "Asleep at the Switch"; Evans and Leever doing songs, patter and a few stunts; and Foley and Strom with a unique comedy acrobatic attraction. All this in addition to a feature picture and a comedy.

HUSBAND OF PEGGY MARSH INJURED IN SHOOTING ACCIDENT

Mishap Occurs at Adirondack
Camp Fifty Miles from Railroad; May Not Recover

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y. — A. M. (Buddie) Johnson, husband of Peggy Marsh, actress and professional dancer, who accidentally shot himself through the body Thursday night, is in a critical condition in the Champlain Valley hospital here Saturday, after having been conveyed by boat and automobile from an isolated camp in the Adirondack mountains, more than fifty miles away. An operation was performed successfully Friday night but Johnson is not out of danger.

The shooting occurred at the camp of Jack Clifford, former husband of Evelyn Nesbit, Thaw, on Chateaugay Lake late Thursday night as Mr. Johnson was about to put away a revolver he had been using in target practice, according to the story obtained by the hospital authorities. Johnson was carried several miles by boat to Merrill, N. Y. and from there to here by automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and her son, on whose account she brought action for $100,000 against the Marshall field estate, had gone to the Clifford camp for a vacation after completing a dancing engagement in New York.

So serious is Mr. Johnson's condition believed to be, his mother and other relatives have been summoned here and are expected to be at his bedside today.

Thrown Through Top of Car
While William Dore Escapes With a Scratch

Mrs. J. E. Willing and children have returned from five weeks' visit in Chicago. Mr. Willing and Wm. Dore motored to Milwaukee to meet them. When near Milwaukee the steering wheel broke and they were thrown over an embankment. Mr. Willing went through the top of the car. He was unconscious for some time and was taken to a Milwaukee hospital. One rib was broken and he was seriously bruised and cut. Mr. Dore escaped with a scratch between his eyes. Mr. Willing sold the car and he and his family returned by train. He is recovering nicely.

NOMINATE

FRANK H. FOWLER

For Member of State Assembly

FIRST DISTRICT.

He has served one term and deserves another.

FRANK H. FOWLER—you all know him; maybe you went to school to him—is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Member of the Assembly from the First La Crosse District at the Primary, September 5th.

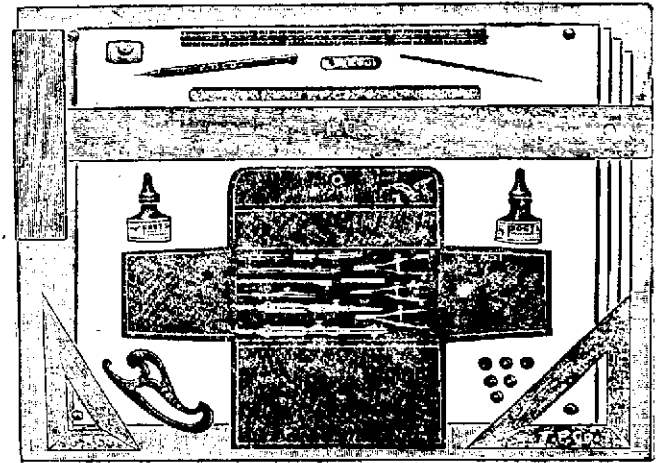

Frank Fowler has the capacity, the broad experience, the vision, the sympathy, the understanding and the balance that will make him an able and desirable representative of your district.

He believes that our form of government is good; that under it we can and will make the sort of constructive progress that will bring everyone greater opportunities, that will mean more happiness in every home.

He believes tax burdens should be equalized and distributed among all citizens in accordance with their ability to bear them without hardship.

If you want a man to represent you in the Assembly whose votes will be dictated by clean motives, a clear conscience and fair mind,

Vote for Fowler!

We are sorry, boys, to remind you that vacation days are over and that you have all got to go back to work.

But, really, is it work to follow the progress of nations and the achievements of great men?

To cultivate our own minds that we may render better service?

Let us help to equip you for this winter's work. We specialize in drawing material for students, that will help to make work interesting and profitable.

Their Protection

Mr. B. died, leaving a wife and young son. He had made his will, naming a trust company as his executor and trustee to settle and manage his affairs.

A friend offered Mrs. B an opportunity to place a portion of her money in what he thought was a sound and promising investment. Mrs. B., not knowing about investment and business matters, referred the offer to her trust company.

The officers of the trust company carefully investigated the proposition, and found that it was not an investment but pure speculation. Mrs. B.'s money was, therefore, not invested. The enterprise failed shortly afterward.

One of the most valuable things you can bequeath to your wife may be a connection and association with a trust company, through which she may be guided in many business matters. This you can do by naming a trust company in your will.

Your will is your family's protection. We shall be glad to send our free booklet, "Safeguarding Your Family's Future," which tells about wills and trusts.

LA CROSSE'S PIONEER CHARITY, HOME IN NAME AND SPIRIT

Tomnie was one of those little tragedies that find their way into orphanages. Tomnie's story was common enough, but Tomnie himself was different. Perhaps the puzzled expression in his eyes accounted for his being different—he was deaf and dumb. His parents had died and left him and their estate in the care of friends. The friends attempted to place Tomnie in an orphanage and appropriate the funds which were his. Tomnie was refused admittance and the "friends" threatened to "expose" the heartless and unprincipled action of the asylum authorities.

THIS is one of the many incidents which occur daily at the Home for Friendless Women and Children in La Crosse, an institution which has been doing a unique and interesting type of charitable work in this city for thirty-four years in a rambling, comfortable old mansion at Eleventh and Perry streets. A visit to the Home disclosed an institution of which La Crosse may well be proud. It is a place where the work is quiet and unassuming, but it is a place of perfection of care and thoroughness of organization and administration that no local enterprise of this size can equal. At the rear of the building is a playground equipped with swings, sand boxes and other playthings, and near by on an improved diamond a game of baseball is in progress. The visitors are to be met by a "dolly" which carries them to the Home's star player, appointing him as official guide. Dannie and his sister are staying at the Home while a father who doesn't want them is getting a divorce from their mother who has been declared an unsound guardian.

Dannie Proud Guide
But all this doesn't bother Dannie, who is only nine. Clinging to the visitor's hand, he proudly exhibits the large airy kitchen and the spotless dining room. Beyond the dining room are two large playrooms, equally spotless. Long tables flanked by benches are in the center and around the walls the finest class of the Baptist church have placed a nursery rhyme frieze. The pictures are also the gift of this class. A half dozen sturdy mission chairs are the gift of a Milwaukee school furniture firm given to the Home through F. E. McCormick, superintendent of La Crosse schools. The books contained in the large bookcase are another evidence of the thoroughness of management. The children's committee select from the donations of books, those suitable for the children and arrange them according to age. Around the walls of the playrooms runs a box set arrangement containing numerous drawers. One of these Dannie calls his "locker" and in it he keeps toys, books and similar possessions which are his very own.

Furniture With a History

The second floor is a series of dormitories containing from three to five beds and several single rooms. Every piece of furniture has a history. There is the "Bliss Room," with its high backed bed and quaint chest of drawers, furnished with furniture given to the Home by Mrs. Bliss when the old Usher homestead was broken up. "Granny Clara" lived in it for nine years. She was ninety-three and her son and his wife thought her a burden. At last even the small sum sent for her care was withdrawn and Granny Clara was sent to the state Home for the Aged. Now she writes quaint letters to the Home for the Friendless, letters scarcely legible because her hand is not steady and always, she asks, "Why can't I come back?"

In the quaintest of the rooms the visitor comes upon a very gentle old lady.

"Come in and sit down," she invites, indicating a rocker with an elaborate "dolly" on the back-rest. The visitor obeys because of the gentle old lady's smile. "I'm crocheting," she says by way of making conversation. The visitor accepts the very obvious information and glances at the bow-end bed with its stiffly starched "sham" covered with red rambler roses. "That bed is so much better lately," went on the gentle old lady. "That's Mrs. Brindley's doings. I never see anybody like her. She's so quick. She just looks at something and right away she can tell you how to fix it. I don't think the tomatoes in the garden are doing well at all. You can see from this window how they don't grow."

The visitor ventures a question, "Does all that garden belong to the Home?"

"Oh my, yes." We raise almost everything. We had all kinds of vegetables all summer. Only the tomatoes don't seem to do so good."

Emphatically a Real Home

There is nothing that is formal or "asylumized" about the Home for the Friendless. One senses that as soon as one enters the place. It shines from the rosy, happy faces of the children, and is illuminated by the placid content of the old ladies. But there are little incidents that prove it, too.

For instance, there is the young man who dropped into the home on a visit to La Crosse about a year ago. "I just came back to see how the old place looked," he said.

"You know," he added shyly, "this is the only real home I ever had." He had been one of the Home's family some years back. He grew up there, and finally went out into the world on his own. When he came back for his visit he told the folks at the home he was working on a farm, and doing well. And when he left he gave the matron a couple of dollars, "to buy things for the kids," he explained.

Old "Alumna" a Nurse

Then there is the young lady who is now a nurse in Milwaukee. She, too, was brought up in the home. Bright, intelligent and hard-working, it was the Home that saw to it that she got her chance, and put her through school until she was able to enter upon her training. There was rejoicing at the Home when word came back from Milwaukee that she had passed her examinations at the head of her class; just the sort of rejoicing that would take place in any household at news of a daughter's triumph.

Last of all there's the poor old lady in a hospital. She'd been at the home for a long time, but finally she grew too ill to remain. She had to have constant expert care which the Home could not give. So she was taken to the hospital. And now, poor thing, she wants to come "home." The people at the hospital are kind, she says, she has every comfort. But it "isn't home." And the only bright spots in her day are those frequent ones when the people from the Home come to visit her, and tell her of all the little happenings and general news items of the family.

The Home for Friendless Women

PART OF THE FAMILY, AND THE HOME

The gang was finally persuaded to stop the ball game and have their "pitchers took," but they weren't really keen about wasting the time.

and Children was founded thirty-four years ago and housed in the old B. E. Edwards home at Eleventh and Perry streets, the same location which it occupies today. The institution is purely local in its scope and accepts no charges who are not residents of La Crosse. It has on an average of thirty inmates. It serves mainly as a boarding home for elderly women and children who pay something toward their keep when possible. The children attend the public schools of the city and school nurses look after the health of the inmates. Local hospitals and physicians, have been very helpful. The Home is not an orphanage. Its purpose is to care for the children of families that have been broken up. Consequently, when inmates become orphaned, they are not placed out through the Home but through state placement officers. The Home is supported mainly by local subscription and will enter upon its thirty-fifth year of operation when its subscription list goes out the first part of September. The amounts subscribed are usually very small with two of the highest subscribers giving fifteen dollars each. Last year various local clubs donated gifts of money. The North Side Progressive League gave $95.71, the La Crosse Shrine club, $50, and John P. Linton Lodge $10. The Elks and Kiwanis clubs also subscribed.

The board of directors is planning an active campaign for subscribers this year. "We are going to make a special effort to get new subscribers rather than more help from those already interested," said Miss Mary Crosby, secretary of the organization. "What we want is to get more people interested in a project which has grown up with La Crosse."

WHEN LINCOLN PRACTICED LAW

Once in the old courthouse at Menomonee, Ill., a prominent citizen of the town sought Lincoln's advice because a neighbor's pigs were in his cornfield. Then no one had fences, and pigs were privileged property. After listening to the man's grievance, Lincoln said: "Well, you will have to civilize both the man and his pigs." Another leading resident of those early days waited until Lincoln was through speaking to inquire what he had better do about a bad debt. Lincoln asked how much money was at stake, and upon finding that the sum was $50 remarked: "Well, just throw it at him. A man can't go through court for $50."

FIVE INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE RACE ACCIDENT AT FAIR

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Five persons were injured at the State fair Saturday when the left wheel of a racing car flew off and crashed into one of the boxes lining the track.

Those injured are:

Mrs. Alice Bruggmann, Racine, left shoulder broken.

Edward Bessler, 11; George Panek, 14, and John Tuschilke, all of Milwaukee, all injured.

The cars scheduled to enter the first race were making a preliminary run around the track. As the leading car dashed by the grandstand, the defective wheel crashed off and into the box.

WHO IS FIGHTING LA FOLLETTE AND BLAINE?

STATESMEN, and office holders are the servants you send to the Legislative halls of the State and Nation to enact laws that will make it easier for you to live your life; laws that will prevent the aggressions of Greed. It was for this, and only this—to protect the weak against the strong—that Governments had to be founded. Organized Wealth, left alone, would force through laws for their own special advantage, laws that would increase the riches of the Few by unloading the burdens of taxation and of Government on the unorganized masses. Think for just a moment. Who is it that is fighting Senator La Follette and Governor Blaine and the rest of the La Follette Progressive ticket? Not the people who are interested in YOUR welfare and happiness, but men, concerns, corporate interests—selfishly Organized Wealth—whose interest it is to grow richer and richer upon the labor of others—YOUR LABOR. They are artists at camouflage, they control the mediums of publicity, they raise false issues, they "play up" their agents, and "play down" La Follette, they mislead worthy people, BUT, behind the fight against La Follette and Blaine is the morbid figure of Selfish Wealth grasping at the vitals of popular Government, to pervert it to its own unworthy ends. They do not hope to defeat Senator La Follette, but by defeating Governor Blaine and the La Follette-Progressive Legislative Candidates they could control at least the Government of Wisconsin. Should they succeed, YOU—not Organized Wealth—will carry the burdens of taxation. Go to the Polls next Tuesday. Do not be deceived by propaganda. Vote the La Follette-Progressive ticket, as shown here, straight through.

What Woodrow Wilson Thinks of La Follette:

"NOW THERE arose in Wisconsin that indomitable little figure of 'Bob' La Follette. He has never taken his eye for a single moment from the goal he set out to reach. I have sometimes thought of Senator La Follette climbing the mountain of privilege, taunted, laughed at, called back, going steadfastly on and not allowing himself to be deflected for a single moment, for fear he also should hearken and lose all his power to serve the great interests to which he had devoted himself. I love these lonely figures climbing this ugly mountain of privilege. But they are not so lonely now. I am sorry for my own part that I did not come in when they were fewer. There was no credit to come in when I came in. The whole nation had awakened."—Woodrow Wilson in a speech at Wilmington, Del.

"Thanks to La Follette," said Theodore Roosevelt

THEODORE ROOSEVELT wrote of La Follette's five years as governor: "Thanks to the movement for genuinely democratic government, which Senator La Follette led to overwhelming victory in Wisconsin, that state has become literally a laboratory for wise experimental legislation, aiming to secure the furniture and political betterment of the people as a whole."

FIRST WEEK SHOWS GOOD PROGRESS IN HERRIN MINE PROBE

One Already Indicted for Murder and Further Indictments are Expected

MARION, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—Concluding the first week of its work, the grand jury investigating the Herrin massacre of June 22, resulting in the death of 22 men, adjourned Saturday to reconvene Tuesday.

The record for the first week of deliberations showed that one man has been indicted for murder, arrested and lodged in jail, testimony, much of it said to be important—has been recorded from about 150 witnesses, two men refused to testify, and federal operatives have been set to watch a number of persons suspected of participation in the plot. Additional indictments are expected to follow the reconvening of the grand jury.

Prediction that the grand jury will return a number of indictments for murder in connection with the Herrin massacre of June 27, but no petit jury will be found to vote on them, is the general prediction of the scores of anonymous witnesses received by Attorney General Edward J. Brundage, State's Attorney Deles Duty, and Assistant Attorney General C. W. Milledikoff, the latter announced late today.

The grand jury will probably fix responsibility for the failure to kill troops.

THE WEEK

that the American people have rendered a moral victory against the reduction of wages until 1924.

The real situation in Wisconsin, announced by the state committee to be serious, is in a way to be ameliorated by lake and rail shipment of something like 100,000 tons of coal due to begin arrival here shortly.

Meanwhile a group of senators, headed by Senator Lammot, are urging the seizure of railroads and inactive mines by the government, and the fullest measures to bring about scientific allotment and transportation of fuel.

Meanwhile the rail strike has so injured agriculture as to have become a new menace in that direction. Lack of shipping facilities is tying up farm produce and fruits. Limitation of the fruit market is making choice fruits a drug which it is difficult to handle.

Perhaps farmers will realize what the situation means when it is too late. America should have aided in the restoration of Germany and Russia to some sort of economic stability. Belatedly, our state department is considering some sort of economic relations with Russia, American farm products, with a bumper year, are a good way to be sold for a song because our domestic markets cannot care for them. The group of senators, including Lodge, Sherman and La Follette, who have opposed every step toward international rehabilitation can not escape responsibility for the fact that the "Maurice isolation" in which they have kept the United States has meant a tremendous loss to farmers through lack of markets. Farmers in time will learn that the St. Lawrence shipway put together with a strong American merchant marine are necessary to farm prosperity, and that the real problem is not whether we shall get these things by one or another course, but whether we shall get them at all.

Meanwhile hope for the resumption of European trade to fall on Friday, the French cabinet refused to concur in the decision of the allied reparations commission and reserves the right to take independent action against Germany. This means if anything, the invasion and perhaps the partition of Germany. Probably it would mean the fall of the German republic, a loss to the world of one of the few affirmative advantages of the war. England is making a valiant effort to secure terms that will bring Germany and Austria out of chaos, but alone she cannot succeed. We are failing to clinch the victory so nobly consummated by the American soldier.

The senate, with 69 members present, voted 47 to 22 to pass the soldiers' bonus bill. It has been sent to congress. The question of whether President Harding will make good his threat to veto the measure still remains. The measure passed by better than the two-thirds vote necessary to override the President's veto, but with 27 absentees, it is possible that a two-thirds majority could not be mustered for that purpose. Probably this assumption is correct.

The week in politics has been unexciting. The return of Senator La Follette to Washington to vote upon the bonus bill, and possibly upon other important measures pending there, deprived the state of its center of excitement. Probably his going will not effect the outcome of the election, as no doubt the bulk of voters know about what they are going to do.

La Follette workers, however, including Robert M. La Follette, Jr., were making a strong rally as the week closed.

The Committee of 41 closed the week with a strong statement in behalf of Dr. Stanford and other conference candidates. Governor Tamm was still fighting an uphill battle against Attorney General Morgan for the republican nomination, and his supporters claim that he will win out by around 50,000 votes, while Morgan's supporters feel that they will win by 30,000 to 40,000.

In the third congressional district the fight between John M. Nelson and Alvin Peterson is nip and tuck, probably with a considerable swing of the dry vote to Peterson following the statement of the Association Opposed

MONACO PRINCESS

The Duchess de Valentinois has been designated hereditary heir to the Monaco principality by her father, the new prince of Monaco.

In prohibition that they considered Mr. Nelson "fair."

In the seventh district the renomination of Joseph D. Beck is practically conceded by all unprejudiced observers.

The fight between John F. Baker and Herman L. Ekera for attorney general is considerably in doubt. Mr. Ekera's years of absence from the state, and Mr. Baker's close identification with Mr. Morgan's strong anti-trust program, operate in favor of the latter.

The campaign between Paulson and Zimmerman for secretary of state is an enigma. Paulson has attacked Senator La Follette's war record vigorously, whether in friendly or hostile territory. His opponent has defended that record. If one were to concede a substantial La Follette majority, the psychology of politics would still leave room for doubt in regard to Paulson. Often a man is nominated because of his fearlessness even where his faction is in the minority. Paulson has made a rather distinctive record.

Senator Hiram Johnson has been renominated in California. His candidacy for governor lost. Johnson's plurality is around 30,000. His backers had expected a much more substantial victory.

A revolt is reported in Russia. Its extent seems undetermined. Some soviet sabors mutined. Uprising started in Ukraine and Crimea.

FIRST UNIT OF NEW BUILDINGS NOW GOING UP

raise money for the first new cattle display building.

On Guaranteed List

The response which met the efforts of this committee was gratifying. Yesterday it was announced that the following individuals and firms had guaranteed $10,000 for the new structure: B. C. Smith, T. H. Brindley, Herman Tillman, F. W. Tuman, D. W. MacWillie, J. A. Bartel, F. J. Reiman, J. C. Colman, George W. Burton, Harry Dahl, H. J. Rooney, W. R. Montague, F. W. Kruss, company, Burrows, Cloak Shop, V. Tausche Hardware company, Continental Clothing House, Peter Newburg, William Doeringer company, W. L. Zust, F. J. Felber, Hoeschler Bros., C. N. Harrington, La Crosse Tribune company.

Simultaneously with the announcement of plans to erect a new building on the fair grounds, it became known yesterday that plans have been formulated to finance the greater La Crosse fair for $100,000 by the issuance and sale of stock and bonds to this amount. Details of this plan will be announced later.

Started by Cone

The history of the movement for a greater fair for La Crosse is interesting.

About three years ago when Charlie Cone joined the Kiwanis Club, he insisted that the members get behind and assist the Fair association in building adequate barns for cattle and horses and for the erection of a show pavilion as well as a grand stand. Members of the Kiwanis club signed up to donate $50 each or $5,000 toward the erection of these buildings because at that time there were one hundred members. The proposition was then put up to the Fair association and it likewise subscribed for $5,000, and with this $10,000 the Kiwanians with the assistance of the Fair association started out to raise $50,000. On account of the poor business conditions the committee could raise only $25,000. This not being sufficient to build the buildings, the matter was dropped until the spring of 1922.

Noble Draws Plans

In the meantime C. W. Noble furnished plans of different kinds and construction of barns and show pavilions. Finally it was decided that the efforts in raising money should be turned over to the Fair association. This spring the matter was brought up again at one of the Fair association directors meetings and it was determined then that all civic organizations must get together and raise the necessary funds. Mr. Convice, president of the Fair association and chairman of the agricultural bureau called a meeting of the agricultural bureau to discuss the matter and to work out ways and means to get these buildings. The men present at the meeting of the agricultural bureau of the Chamber of Commerce were: Mr. Burnett, William Hartley, Sam Hyde, Mr. P. Schaper, John Bendel, Carl Schaefer, James Price, Rudolph Coch, Mr. Spreiter, Mr. Burnett, Mr. Spreiter and Mr. Hyde, and William Hartley being directors of the bureau and Mr. Holcombe, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and Mr. MacWillie, past president of the Chamber of Commerce. The matter was discussed thoroughly and a number of resolutions were passed in favor of the buildings on the fair grounds. A motion was made by Mr. MacWillie that the resolutions be submitted to the directors of the Chamber of Commerce which was done and after some discussion the directors of the Chamber of Commerce approved the resolutions.

The meeting of the Fair association directors was then called and the matter was thoroughly discussed.

Mr. Burns moved that the resolutions be adopted providing the agricultural bureau of the Chamber of Commerce could raise the sufficient funds to build the unit as described in the resolution.

Gets the Guarantee

After the adoption of the resolution by the directors of the Fair association, the matter was turned back to the agricultural bureau of the Chamber of Commerce and Mr. MacWillie, Mr. Doeringer and Mr. Thwing were selected to go out and raise the necessary funds for the building now in construction on the fair grounds. In three days Mr. MacWillie had the necessary information for the directors of the Fair association, with a guarantee of $10,000, signed by twenty-three of the leading business men of the city of La Crosse.

New Entrance

The directors of the Fair association are also contemplating a new entrance to the fair grounds. The V-shaped corner between the Green Bay railroad and the Campbell turnpike which has been the dumping grounds for the last decade has been cleaned up, graded and fenced in with woven wire fencing. At the south end of this piece of ground will be the new entrance to the fair grounds and it will be made attractive by a new and up to date ticket office. It will do away with the congestion of foot passengers, automobiles and teams at the old entrance. The entrance that has been used for a number of years will still be used for automobiles and teams only.

MACKS BREAK EVEN WITH YANKEES IN TWIN BILL, 11-6; 6-0

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Brilliant pitching by Bob Hasty enabled Philadelphia to get an even break with New York Saturday. The Yankees won the first game, 11 to 6, and lost the second, 6 to 0.

New York batted Naylor from the mound in the second inning for the first time and hit Ed Delmonico in the fourth and ninth. Jones, who succeeded Mays, had a homer with one on in the ninth. Mays was driven from the mound by the Athletics in the sixth inning of the first game. Galloway's home run scored two in that inning.

In the second game, Philadelphia smashed out his thirty-third of the season off Shawkey in the second inning. Scheer had a home run in the fourth inning with two on bases.

Scores:

First game—New York.....050 000 094—11 6
Philadelphia.....000 023 016—6 0
Batteries—Mays, Jones and Schaefer; Naylor, Heimann and Perkins, Briggs.

Second game—New York.....000 000 000—0 6

Batteries—Shawkey, Murray and Scheer; Hasty and Perkins.

MESSAGE OF SUPPORT SENT TO SHOPMEN

head of the striking shopmen's organization, was cleared away Saturday night when friends said he had gone to Washington to confer with Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor and other labor leaders.

Federal officials have been hunting Mr. Jewell to service him with a writ of restraining order prohibiting shopmen from interfering with the nation's railroad traffic, the order having been issued here Friday. Mr. Jewell, according to friends, departed Thursday and knew nothing of the writ to be issued the following day.

Recurrence of reports that Mr. Jewell might transfer his headquarters to Canada to avoid the provisions of the restraining order and that he might make a test case of the court action brought a denial from his attorney.

Marshals Ready for Action

CHICAGO, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—While all the efforts of the government today were directed toward forcing the restraining order issued on Friday prohibiting striking railway shopmen from interfering in any way with the nation's railroad traffic, reports of scattered violence continued to be received.

More than 5,000 deputy United States marshals were ready to enforce the order if it was violated. Copies of the instrument were being served on more than 25 union officials throughout the country. Some marshals were said they had obtained service on "a majority of those named in the writ."

Union leaders in federal court at the request of Attorney General Harry Daugherty, Mr. Daugherty left for Columbus on Friday. He is expected to return to Chicago Saturday after a conference with Charles F. Clyne, district attorney at St. Paul, Minn., and a restraining order will be enforced to the letter.

Will Continue Strike

The life of the order extends to September 10, when a hearing to have it made permanent is to be held. While the shopmen issued a statement through the executive council that the writ would be obeyed, the strikers refused to continue the strike in a lawful manner.

No comment on the federal action was forthcoming from the United States labor board where members were busy with the hearing involving the maintenance of the railway workers' request for an increase in wages.

At Memphis, Tenn., Charles Lanier, a nonunion shop worker, was shot and killed while riding in a automobile to the "Prizes" show where he was employed. The assailant who fired at him from a crowd of hooligans escaped. He expressed the belief that the shots were intended for C. V. Stevenson, a car foreman who was riding with Lanier and was expected to be in the crowd.

Cleveland Striker Shot

At Cleveland, Matthew Strizaker, a strike leader, was shot after he and two other men, according to reports, had shot Peter Schweisshal, a cabinet maker in a railway shop. The first is said to have followed in a limousine of Schweisshal of strike sympathizers. Two suspects are held by the police.

When an attempt was made to move two cars in the Boston and Maine freight yards at Lynn, Mass., it was found that the car spikes had been put in the journals.

Arrest Nine in Georgia

WAYCROSS, Ga.—Nine arrests were made here Saturday on warrants charging violation of the strike injunction of the federal courts, and warrants have been issued for others, according to District Attorney John W. Bennett.

Those taken are alleged to have violated an injunction granted by the federal court of the Southern District of Georgia against striking employees of the Georgia Railway and Electric Co. State Marshals have been here for some time investigating disorders in connection with the strike.

HEADS GOPHER LAWYERS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Judge W. A. Lancaster of Minneapolis was elected president of the Minnesota State Bar association which closed its annual session here Saturday. A resolution asking the return of capital punishment was tabled because members felt that there were not enough present to take action that would be representative of the entire state bar.

GIRL WHO SOUGHT TO JOIN "SHIEK" IS HELD INSANE

MADISON, Wis.—Miss Frances Campbell, 10-year-old University of Wisconsin student, who attempted to go to Minneapolis Thursday night to join the "shiek" because he had promised her a literary career, was committed to the state hospital for the insane at Mendota, Saturday afternoon. The man who termed himself the "shiek" posed as a fortune-teller while here.

Among other girls, Miss Campbell visited the "shiek" during his stay here and he prophesied a brilliant literary career for her, it is said. When the "shiek" left Madison for Minneapolis, she attempted to go on another train, but was arrested and detained in Madison by her stepfather.

TAILORS UNDERTAKE MISSION TO RUSSIA WILL PRESS TROUSERS

NEW YORK.—With the avowed hope of substituting the nattily creased trousers of American men for the baggy ones of the Russians, 85 men tailors, most of them of Russian extraction or birth, sailed for Russia Saturday on the Berengaria. Up-to-date waistcoats, coats and other items of correct male attire in America also will be shown the Russians and an effort made to have them universally adopted in the land of the soviet.

The tailors, who sailed third-class, took with them enough food and equipment to last them several months in case they should be unable to procure anything in Russia.

OBITUARY

GEORGE ANDREW WELLS
The funeral of little George Andrew Wells, who was killed by an auto truck on George street on August 29, was held from his aunt's residence, 2114 Kane street, on August 31.

He was the son of his parents and his sister and one brother.

Interment was made in Oak Grove cemetery. Rev. Vik officiated.

MRS. GUNNAR JOHNSON
Mrs. Gunnar Johnson, 37, died on Saturday morning about 11:30 of the complications of old age. She had been in fair health until the last two weeks. Funeral services will be held Monday morning at the Trinity Lutheran church. Rev. H. C. Magelssen officiating. Burial will be at Oak Grove cemetery.

MRS. ANTOINETTE JOHNSON
Mrs. Antoinette Johnson, 1223 Caledonia street, died at the Lutheran hospital Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock after an illness of ten days. She was the widow of Iver Johnson, who died about ten years ago.

Mrs. Johnson was born in Vardalen, Norway, in 1845.

Surviving are two brothers, both residing in Norway.

The funeral will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Trinity Lutheran church, Rev. E. O. Vik officiating. Interment will be made in Oak Grove cemetery.

OLE EMILSON

Ole Emilson died Friday morning at 12:45 at his home near Chasaburg, at the advanced age of 94. He was born in Norway October 30, 1827, and would have been 95 in the coming October.

Mr. Emilson and his wife celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1905. Mrs. Emilson died two years later.

To them were born eleven children, one of whom died in Norway and two on the ocean coming to the United States. The other eight are still living. They are: Ole, of Ettrick; Mrs. Andrew Johnson, Chasaburg; Edward, of La Crosse; and John, Martin, Theodore and Oscar, of Chasaburg. Surviving also are thirteen grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Emilson came to the United States in the year 1861, making the trip across the ocean in a sailing vessel. The journey taking thirteen weeks. The family carried its own food for the trip. Landing at Quebec, the trip to Chicago and thence to Galena, Illinois, was made in box cars, and from Galena the Emilson party journeyed to La Crosse by boat. Upon their arrival in this city the next stage of the journey, to Chasaburg via the Chipmunk Coulee trail, was made on foot, and the family took up its residence on the farm which has since been occupied by Mr. Emilson up to the time of his death.

Funeral services will be held Monday noon at twelve o'clock at the Chasaburg farm home, with burial in a cemetery near that village.

ANOTHER KEEFE COLLEGE GRADUATE SHINES IN THE EAST

Army officer endorses Mr. Keefe's ability as a teacher.

Fort Ontario, Oswego, N. Y., July 28, 1922.

"It's a pleasure for me to place my O. K. on Professor Richard J. Keefe. He was in charge of the Commercial Department of the Education and Recreational Schools at Fort Ontario and during his stay at this Post assisted many of our soldiers in qualifying for good positions in the business world.

"Besides his wealth of experience and a thorough knowledge of Commercial subjects, Mr. Keefe has the ability of being able to impart this knowledge to others much easier than most instructors. His wide experience, coupled with his most unusual teaching ability places him in the first grade as an instructor."

RETIRED U. S. ARMY OFFICER DIES AFTER 41 YEARS' SERVICE

CHICAGO

"WORK" IS SLOGAN OF CITY'S SCHOOLS FOR COMING YEAR

5,000 Pupils to be Enrolled in Grade and High Schools on September 5

JUNIOR HIGH AT LOGAN TO MARK NEW ERA IN EDUCATION

Innovation Being Watched by Educators Throughout the State

"WORK" That is to be the slogan of the 5,000 pupils who will enter the grade and high schools on September 5. Also it will be the first time in the history of the city that one will be high schools and not high school. The La Crosse high school, which has been known as Central High for now there is a Logan High school, a junior high school, and a high school.

The 5,000 pupils entering schools this fall will be an increase of 150 over the last fall opening. The teaching staff of the schools will consist of 20 teachers and principals. The only change in the staff will be on the high side. H. C. Hayden will be principal of the new Logan Junior High and the Logan high school. Harry Spence will be principal of the Jefferson, Franklin and North branch schools.

Want Home Co-operation

The slogan of the new school year will be work, first and foremost, said H. C. Hayden, superintendent of schools. "There must be co-operation between the home and the school. The school is only half the work. The other half is accomplished at home. It is not enough merely to send the children off to school. It is up to the parents to guard their children's health so that they may be better fitted to study. The food the children get is another important part that parents should give heed to. A child going to school needs hearty, substantial food. By that I mean that a breakfast of coffee and a slice of bread, a bunch of ice cream and candy and a hurriedly eaten supper of indigestible foods is not the proper food for a school child.

"When I say that work is the slogan of the year I mean real, honest, earnest work. The child must apply himself and himself diligently to his studies and also that they accomplish work at their homes. For their parents. I don't think that school work should take up all a child's time after school. There should be plenty of time for the child to assist his father or mother in lightening the burden of housework.

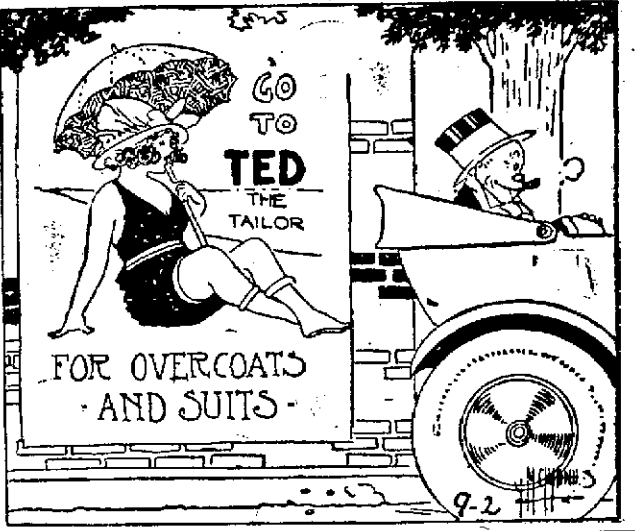

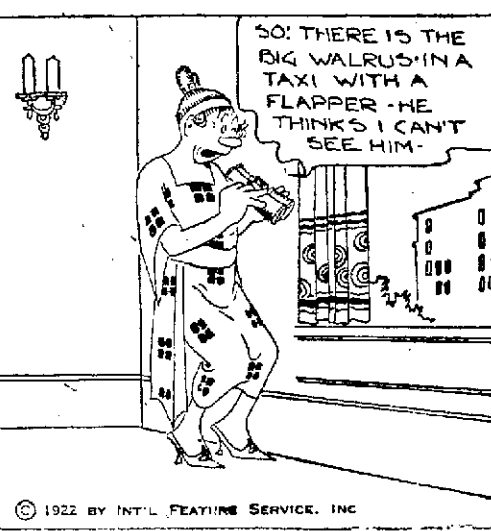

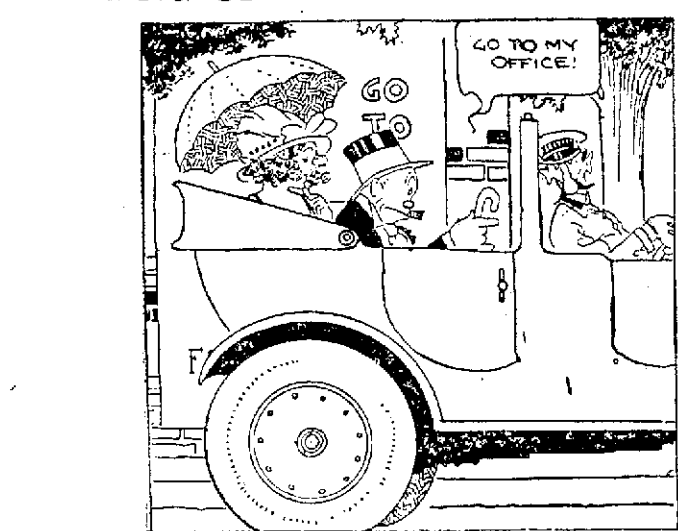

Pupils Need Proper Amount of Sleep

Another thing that we are going to back the aid of parents in, and that is the question of proper amount of sleep. The child should get plenty of sleep and go to bed at the right time. Only a child is a good thing for the grade or high school pupil. Late in the morning is not the time for them to go to school. Before midnight is the time to go to bed. The best part of school studies is during the night. It was made it was shown that the students who completed out late at night, were the poorest students. Their studies were lower than other students who went to bed early.

Therefore, the value of good health is being recognized," continued Mr. McCormick, "and the means of obtaining good health is being amplified. Physical and fitness, mental efficiency is in part based and under the supervision of health experts, the health of the pupils in the La Crosse schools will be safeguarded and promoted in every way.

Reading classes of the three high schools will be especially emphasized during the coming year. We want to work for good reading right up through the elementary grades so that a sixth grader can read understandingly and a high school reader can read well. Reading and study are closely allied. If a pupil reads well, he is equipped to study well and not otherwise. "Vocalizing" and lack of concentration are all too common evils in the schools and a proper knowledge of how to read will go a long way toward overcoming them.

Must Have Respect for Work

"Unless real work is demanded by the schools, children cannot be taught the lesson of respect for work. For this reason, attractions which distract the attention of pupils and make a school simply a place where good times are planned, will not be allowed."

There will be eleven teachers at the Logan High and north side pupils are urged to attend the Logan school, where high school work up to and including sophomore year work will be taught. The Junior high courses are the eighth grade, freshman and sophomore. Three hundred pupils are expected to attend the Logan High. In the old Logan school building will be the seventh grade, first, second and third grades and the kindergarten.

"One of the greatest advantages of this junior high school plan is the fact that the eighth grade pupils will have a chance to select certain courses. For example, they will have just a touch of Latin which will enable them to understand simple work analysis. There will be a commercial course in which the various occupations will be discussed. There will be courses of reading, certain books being recommended that tell of the various trades, professions and arts. In this way the pupils' imaginations are stimulated, they get a much clearer idea of what the occupations are like and in a year's time get some idea of what line or work they would like to follow. And this much is accomplished before they enter high school.

Then in the practical arts course the girls have domestic science and the boys manual training. In the seventh grade the pupils get the occupational course and also a course in citizenship. These elective courses really begin in the seventh grade and mark a departure from the hard and fast lines heretofore observed in outlining studies for the pupils of the grade schools.

Educators Watch La Crosse

"The Junior High school here and in Minneapolis are the only ones in this part of the country and they will be watched this fall and winter by educators in the middle west."

This year ten poor children in La Crosse who would have to go to work long before their grade school training or high school course was completed will be enabled to complete their education because of the financial aid rendered by civic organizations of the city and the state board of education. Each of the ten children will get $15 a month or $150 for the ten school months, thus enabling them to purchase their studies.

First grade pupils at the North Branch school, which was burned this summer, will be housed in barracks near the school. The second grade pupils will go to the Franklin school.

The vocational school, which also burned this year, will be housed in the school barracks at Eighth and State.

At the new Washburn school, Eighth and Main streets, there will be a development school, a school for deaf pupils and an open air school, all innovations in La Crosse schools.

Training for Stammerers

Mr. McCormick also announces that there will be special training given this year for children who stutter and stammer. It will be the object of this training to correct these impediments. There will be 150 pupils in the city taking this special course, which will be in charge of Miss Mary Zetler, who has been teaching at the Jefferson kindergarten but who has taken special training in this work at Columbia university.

Miss Norma Reichelt, formerly a grade teacher, who has taken special training at Columbia university, will be in charge of the opportunity school in the Washburn school building.

The Why of Desert Conditions

Desert conditions arise in any region in which the rainfall is markedly less than the amount of water that evaporates from the surface. As the amount of evaporation naturally increases from the polar regions toward the tropics and is affected by winds and elevation, it follows that no arbitrary amount of rainfall may be designated as an unfavorable cause or accompaniment of arid or desert conditions.

No Improvement in Our Auto Collision Record—

During the time our boys were over the seas in the World War the fatalities were only half of the number charged to operation of automobiles in the United States during the same period.

Every auto driver should do his share towards reducing this deplorable waste of life and property.

It is time for us to wake up to the danger from careless driving and operation of automobiles with brakes in poor condition.

It is a safe statement that 50 per cent of the automobiles operated have brakes in defective condition.

In La Crosse, from January 1st to August 25th, inclusive, there have been 55 automobile collisions with street cars, or one for every 4 3-10 days.

Poor automobile brakes were responsible for approximately half of the collisions, and the balance were principally due to failure in having auto under control and looking in both directions before crossing car tracks.

A NEW LOW PRICE

SPECIAL-SIX TOURING

WHEREVER you look, you will find protection against hard wear built into the Studebaker Special-Six and this quality of construction is just as exacting down under the surface as it is where you can see every detail.

The skillful workmanship and the fine materials of these hidden values are largely responsible for its long-lived dependable service.

Two important elements that make the Special-Six notable for fine performance and comparative freedom from repair, are the four-bearing crankshaft and the seven-inch frame with its five cross-members and sub-frame supporting the motor and the separate transmission.

The new price, $1275, is the lowest for which the Special-Six Touring Car ever sold—and the quality is better than ever.

Price does not always determine value, but in the case of Studebaker it establishes the finest values in the market. The name Studebaker on your car insures satisfaction.

Come in or phone and let us give you a demonstration in the Special-Six. Drive it yourself. A ride will help you make up your mind. In public confidence and respect, the name Studebaker stands higher than ever.

Finds Splendid Equipment
on Fine Site

(Editor's Note: Following is a report of the camping committee on the Boy Scout camp established this year at Council Bluffs road at a meeting of the executive council of the Boy Scout organization at the La Crosse club Thursday night.)

At the termination of each year's scout camp, a complete report to the local council is expected of the camping committee. We have, through this report, to convey to the members of the council the progress that has been achieved in so short a time.

The La Crosse council came into existence upon the arrival of their scout executive, October 1, 1921. National reports show that on January 1, 1922, there were six troops organized with a total of 168 scouts; to date we have nearly five and one-half times that number enrolled, with prospects pointing to a still larger enrollment.

Find Camp Ground

The first duty of the camping committee was the selection of a camp site. One submitted for investigation was found totally undesirable; and another, situated just east of Hunter's bridge, on Black river, recommended by Deputy Commissioner W. S. Scullin, was found to be one of the most desirable camping spots in the country. Negotiations were immediately started with the farmer, for the use of this ideal camp site for the summer, by chairman of the camping committee and scout executive. Later on controversy arose but we are pleased to say that all has been cleared up.

The next task was to procure suitable camp equipment at the least possible expense. The scout executive made a trip to Chicago, and through personal interview, was able to secure 24 class A pyramidal army tents, 16x14, for $9 each. At Camp Robinson he procured, at a very low price, the necessary kitchen equipment, and at the close of camp was directed to report to the quartermaster at Camp Robinson for the purpose of purchasing equipment to completely equip the camp, and because of the preference given to the boy scout organization, the camp equipment was made complete at an exceedingly low price.

Donations Help Out

It was necessary to build a permanent kitchen that would be fireproof and also suitable for storing camp equipment at the close of the camping season. Lumber was purchased from the Columbia Lumber company at Galesville, suitable for building a 16x16 kitchen and five platforms for headquarters, wireless, supply and officers' tents. The committee of the Chamber of Commerce, appointed to assist in entertaining delegates of the Luther League convention, donated the funds necessary for this structure. In appreciation of the work the boy scouts performed during the convention. Besides this amount, the committee of the La Crosse Luther League appropriated fifty dollars from an excess of funds raised for the convention, for the purchase of a flag pole for camp. The La Crosse Plumbing and Supply company furnished the pipes for same, at cost. These pipes were connected and the flag pole was raised by scouts in camp, under the direction of Mr. Scullin. The pole towers fifty-seven feet above the concrete base, which is five feet in diameter.

The duties during the first week were quite heavy and a great deal of commendation should be given Mr. Scullin for his tireless efforts in bringing the camp to perfection. This week can better be called the period of construction. The officers in charge this period were Deputy Commissioner W. S. Scullin; executive officer, Assistant Scoutmaster Joseph Baschert; wireless instructor, Assistant Scoutmaster Leslie Jenks; cook, Leland Tibbitts; assistant cook, Scout Earl Carr, and camp director, Dan Young Bear.

Pump Installed

After the flag pole had been erected it was found that there would be sufficient money to purchase a force pump, a pitcher pump, and necessary points and pipes. Pipes were driven 18 feet through the sand, and connected with a pump which furnished pure water for the boys. The pump at officers' headquarters, Little Bear camp, had pipes driven 12 feet in the sand. These two pumps were left intact for the use of picnickers, who will undoubtedly visit our camp site.

The boys built bridges, put up railings, and gave the whole camp site a general "going over."

The third week that camp was in session, Mr. Rosier, deputy commissioner, relieved Mr. Scullin of his duties and offered suggestions for improvement which were carried out under his able direction.

Deputy Commissioner Harry Spence had charge of camp the last week, and he assisted in the taking and storing of the equipment. The tents and canvas cots were stored at Tillman's storage on South Fourth street; the stores at the La Crosse Pile company, and the steel cots and lumber in the permanent kitchen at camp.

There is $2,000 insurance carried on the camp equipment, although if the equipment were to be replaced it would cost considerable more than the insured value.

The number of troops who sent one or more scouts totalled 28. The number of scouts enrolled for one week or more, were 66. The total number of troops from outside, that are under the jurisdiction of the local council, was three, with an attendance of forty-three. The total of La Crosse scouts attending was 291, and with the forty-three outsiders, the total attendance was 334. There were eleven assistant scoutmasters and thirteen scoutmasters who remained a day or more in camp. Twenty-one council members visited camp, and the Rotary and Lions' clubs held picnics on the camp ground at the invitation of the camping committee. On Tuesday noon, July 18, the Kiwanis club held their regular weekly luncheon with the boys in camp at that time. Troop committees from Sparta, West Salem and Virgo, also Y. M. C. A. officials visited camp, besides scores of parents and scouts' friends.

In the financial statement you will find that the receipts from camp were $554.83, with an expenditure of $577.41 for maintenance of camp, leaving a surplus of $17.42, all outstanding bills for the maintenance of camp having been paid.

Special appreciation should be given Mr. L. L. Lamb and Mr. J. C. Burns for the water melons, bananas, peaches and musk melons, donated for camp. Appreciation should be extended to Mr. Miller of the Miller-Rose company, for the thirty dozen eggs given the boys, and also to the Kiwanis, Lion and Rotary clubs and the Phy Ed students at normal for the kegs of ice cream each brought to camp when those organizations answered the invitations extended them to visit camp. The candy donated by numerous individuals, including Mr. Dixon, Mr. Hubbard and Mr. Steinmetz, was greatly appreciated, and also the dozen mirrors donated by Mr. Irvine. Mention should also be made of the six flashlights that were used as prizes at camp, and donated by Thad Brindley.

Through the generosity of Mr. P. J. Verly, Mr. J. C. Barnes, the L. L. Lamb company, Tillman Brothers, Tausche Hardware company, Mr. Nichols of the Standard Oil company and the Monaghan company, all of whom donated the use of their trucks at different times during the camping season, the cost of transportation of boys and equipment to and from camp was greatly reduced.

Influence of Scouting
In conclusion will say that scouting has come to La Crosse to stay because of its far reaching influence. It has been said and it can easily be proven that every scout influences four other boys to live cleaner lives. The summer camp, as a training school, gives the young boy greater vision of personal responsibility, respects authority and oftentimes the first training of absoluteness in his obedience.

We cannot speak too highly of the officers who had charge of camp at different times. It is through the tireless endeavors of such men as these, that the wonderful program of the boy scout organization has been made available to so many boys, rich and poor alike.

Hupmobile Sales Keep Pace With Growing Knowledge of Values

It is interesting to note how closely the steadily ascending line of Hupmobile sales has followed the increase in general knowledge of, and insistence upon, motor car value.

Ever since the public turned from loose spending to close buying, this Hupmobile sales line has shot upward with astounding rapidity.

Is increase in demand for the Hupmobile, after more than a year and a half of steady acceleration, today shows no sign of diminishing. Instead, the shattering of new sales records, both here and throughout the country, is a matter of monthly record.

The constantly growing demand for the Hupmobile goes straight back to the fact that the car is a remarkably good value for the price you pay, and a greater value in its saving in cost of upkeep and of operation.

The final saving, which the Hupmobile owner realizes because of his car's high re-sale value, is a further evidence of the soundness of the Hupmobile as an investment.

The Machine We Call "The Body"

The body is like a wonderfully intricate mechanism. Each part is delicately adjusted in a correct relationship to the other.

No part of this mechanism can be thrown out of adjustment, not even slightly without disturbing the manner in which the whole mechanism will work.

When this has happened, correct adjustment must be restored before correct processes can go on again.

Because he knows when structures are out of line and because he understands how to correct them by adjustment, the Osteopathic Physician is sometimes called "The Mechanic of the Body."

The adjustments which he makes are intelligent. The health restoring processes of Nature, which follow, are certain.

Remember that the foundation of health lies in perfect adjustment of the mechanism of the body and that Osteopathy is the science of proper adjustment.

Baby Charmer Must Grow Up Quick to Be a Success This Winter

BY MARIAN HALE

The truth isn't always pleasant, but it is well to know the worst.

There has been a radical shakeup in vamping circles and the baby vamp has lost out!

Our fall and winter siren will be a slinky, slender, soaring sister, such as wrecked homes several seasons before the reign of the flapper.

The baby vamp had her chance, but she muffed it. She didn't last. Men fell for her, but not for long. She was hard on their bank accounts, but not on their hearts.

In other words, the fluffly darling could jazz all right herself, but she couldn't make a man's heart synch-pate to anything like the fantastic measures of the old Theda Bara model. And she couldn't sustain the tempo.

So, she's out. If you don't believe this is the day of the tall girl just look at the styles. They're all made for her—draperies, long skirts, big hats and all.

The only thing left for the short girl is to put a few extra lifts on her heels, buy a comb a foot high, pin up her bobbed hair, use every inch of her spine, and create such illusions of the Woodworth building as she can.

Another cause contributing to the downfall of the baby vamp is said to have been her blondness. The past tense is used advisedly. Beauty specialists have decided that it takes the dark lady to hold the attention of men.

Blond hair, pink and white skins and baby stares are forgotten when a man looks into midnight eyes. Hence, men voted for the fade out of the blond.

So far no beauty doctor has advocated any measure for changing blue eyes to black, but wonderful effects are achieved by darkening the eye-lashes and hand-painting shadows beneath light orbs.

And the way they can transform gold tresses to ebony is nothing short of breath-taking. You'll be surprised how you won't know your best friend this winter if the supply of black hair dye holds out.

Getting the olive skin that goes with the dark coloring is too easy for words. The shops are full of orange and brown face powders that are applied over a foundation of cold cream. The real color is buried far below.

After all, in no way does woman demonstrate her versatility so conclusively as in the way she is able to change, not only her mind, but her personality, figure, type and even her husband to meet the demands of the changing seasons.

The baby vamp can grow up if necessary—and she will. Her mind has always been mature.

If winter comes and finds you a blond flapper you have only yourself to blame.

BLONDS ARE ABOUT TO PASS. COMPLEXIONS WILL BE DARK. SHE WILL BE SUMMER THAN EVER.

PROFITEERING BY A DOCTOR

A medical man in Nagykoros, near Budapest, recently charged 5,000 crowns (present value 2 pounds, but purchasing value in a village about 6 pounds) for a single visit to a patient who lived not far from the doctor's residence. This patient sued the doctor for "profiteering," but the court dismissed the case. The plaintiff appealed, however, to a higher court, which gave judgment against the doctor, on the ground that the demanding of an exorbitant fee for professional services was to be regarded as profiteering, and was therefore illegal. It was decided that mental workers could fairly be considered as profiteers in such cases; no exception could be made concerning doctors, for although the latter did not technically receive "wages," their services came within the accepted meaning of "work."

MATHIE APPEALS TO DEMOCRATS TO VOTE IN OWN PRIMARY

Calls on Members to Return in Effort to Preserve Existence of Party in Wisconsin

OSHKOSH, Wis.—A plea to democrats urging them to return to their own party to preserve its existence in Wisconsin and take advantage of an opportunity for victory in the November election, was made by Karl Mathie, candidate for the democratic nomination, at a public meeting here last night.

"The time has come to consider seriously your return to the democratic ranks," Mr. Mathie said, addressing members of his party. "The party needs its members; the state needs a strong democratic party; the nation needs a Wisconsin with balanced parties leading within the constitution," he said.

"The dominant faction of the republican party," the candidate continued, "is needed toward socialism, class hatred and racial intolerance. Its leader would eclipse our supreme court and muzzle all newspapers but his own and Hearst's. The faction in control at Washington is backing the other side in Wisconsin. It stands for reaction and Neanderthalism."

"Republicans are appealing to democrats in the name of democracy to vote in their primary. When have they ever been that kind of democracy? There will be no democratic ticket in November if members of the party desert now."

"The democratic party is against special privileges for the few as well as against destructive socialism. It is against the frozen hand of reaction as well as the corrupting fire of radicalism. It is for diffusing power and responsibility among the people. It is for simple government and humane economy."

"The major end of the present tendency toward concentration of government is a selfish one. People are being inspected, regimented, governed, spied on, straight-jacketed, censored, stifled and, in the end, degraded like children. And at what cost in taxes over mounting toward confiscation—the goal of the Neanderthal bourgeois."

"The spirit of an honest primary to elect democrats is going lost, the republican primary. The spirit of democracy calls upon its members to fight for principle within their own party enough though defeat may be their reward. The democrats and the sharp battle of the republicans who had no use as voters for personal promotion."

KENDALL KEYSTONE'S EDITOR HAS A GRIN AT TEASDALE IN STATE SENATORIAL CAMPAIGN

Legislative campaigns in La Crosse county have been moving sedately, but up in the Thirty-first district, comprising Monroe, Vernon and Jackson counties, where Howard Teasdale is running against Senator Conant, there's been a lively set-to, with Alex McCleneghan, publisher of the Kendall Keystone, leading in an old-time newspaper fight.

McCleneghan is a humorist and versifier, and a fair sample of his style in the senatorial campaign in the district may be gleaned from a story and a verse that appeared in the Keystone on the occasion of Mr. Teasdale's recent campaign speech. Here's the poem, first:

Teasdale for State Senate
(Keystone Poetry Machine)
I am in this race for a senator's place,
As dear to my soul as a feast;
By McDota's roar on its sounding stage,
Where my verse the brain may be un-burdened is here.

supposed to make any difference what sort of an introductory card a candidate used, or whether he used none. The principles of the opponent's are clearly stated by every speaker and liberally circulated otherwise, and some of their cards are not blank. That sort of talk is rubbish.

"A Great Light"
"Teasdale said in his speech he is all for the common people, whom the stalwarts would assist in robbing. Verily, like Saul of Tarsus, he must have seen a great light. Back in 1911 he was a member of the state senate and stood shoulder to shoulder with John M. Whitehead, the stalwart leader. He voted against an amendment to the income tax bill which raised the exemption of single men from $600 to $800. Another bill, known as 1042A, which provided a ten-hour day for working women, he strenuously opposed and attempted to have it amended so that telephone operators would not come under the law, he being then, as he is now, a considerable holder of telephone properties. If there was any such animal as a stalwart when Teasdale was in the senate he was one of them. He was for his pocketbook—he was not interested in working women."

Teasdale's opponent, Senator Conant, comes before the people with four years' clean, honorable record. Teasdale comes with a record that should condemn any man seeking office. He thinks people have forgotten.

Of La Follette
"Of course in his speech he praised La Follette. Why not? Doesn't he hope to ride into office on La Follette's pig?" He gave La Follette credit for preventing the exemption of taxation on foreign investments. That was a bad proposition and La Follette did right in opposing it. But he didn't prevent it. That was done by others whom he is now abusing.

He scored Ganfield, La Follette's senatorial opponent, for having resided in another state, but didn't say a word about Ekern, who has resided in Chicago the past 19 years until he brought back by La Follette to run for attorney general.

In short, Mr. Teasdale's whole speech was a transparent effort to

PRENUPTIAL AFFAIR GIVEN IN HONOR OF ELIZABETH NORBECK

ON SATURDAY Mrs. Frank P. Hixson was hostess at her home, 1431 King street, at a handsome pre-nuptial luncheon at half-past one. Mrs. Hixson entertained in company with Miss Elizabeth Norbeck, who is to be married on Saturday, September eighth, to Mr. Edward Moore Robinson of Bethlehem, Pa. Places were laid for twelve at a daintily appointed table which was featured in pink. The guests were Mrs. Charles Gloré of Chicago, and the Misses Elizabeth Norbeck, Bettie Hixson of Pasadena, Calif., Jane and Mary Baldwin, Margaret Starnum, Eleanor Edwards, Eleanor Sanford, Anna Esch, Gretchen and Caroline Schweizer.

Miss Norbeck was again guest of honor on Friday when Miss Mary Baldwin entertained at Glen Cameron, the country home of the Baldwins in Pleasant Center. It was a supper party, eight guests being present, the Misses Elizabeth Norbeck, Bettie Hixson, Gretchen and Caroline Schweizer, Eleanor Edwards, Margaret Starnum and Jane Baldwin.

A bridge party was given on Thursday by Miss Margaret Starnum, 1122 King street, which was also for Miss Norbeck. Four tables were played and the favors for the highest scores went to Mrs. Charles Gloré and Mrs. Russell Thompson. Two tables were laid for the refreshments, an art fashioned course bouquet marking the place of the bride-elect. A handsome piece of Venetian lace was presented to the bride-to-be.

DR. AND MRS. Adolph Gundersen went to Madison Saturday to attend the marriage of their son, Dr. Sigrid Gundersen, to Miss Elizabeth Head.

MABEL NORMAND AS ACROBAT AT THE MAJESTIC SUNDAY
A well known favorite of La Crosse is scheduled to entertain on the screen today at the Majestic theater when Mabel Normand makes her entrance in "Head Over Heels," which will remain in town for just one day. Miss Normand has her full share of acrobatics to perform in her new picture as she is presented as an Italian acrobat who has been given a contract to "star" in America. The theatrical agent, having seen her only in costume, could not dream that the motley costumed girl who came to America to fulfill her contract was the charming acrobat he had engaged.

In attempting to repudiate the contract, the agent realizes that he has temperament to deal with. Consequently he temporizes with temperment to the extent of sending it to a beauty parlor. When the undaunted "star" returns, she is the star indeed; so much so, in fact, that various other offers are made to her. How she receives them and what she does to those making the proposals furnish the romantic interludes to this most amusing photoplay.

quently he temporizes with temperment to the extent of sending it to a beauty parlor. When the undaunted "star" returns, she is the star indeed; so much so, in fact, that various other offers are made to her. How she receives them and what she does to those making the proposals furnish the romantic interludes to this most amusing photoplay.

"MAN FROM LOST RIVER"—MONDAY

A powerful photodrama of conflicting love interests, with its locale a northwestern lumber camp, is promised when "The Man From Lost River" is shown at the Majestic theater for two days, beginning Monday. The story is the first original photoplay written by Katherine Newlin Barr, whose two previous stories, "The Branding Iron" and "Snowblind," have been made into stirring motion pictures.

"The Man from Lost River" pictures the trials of a powerful, patient lumber camp foreman in "standing by" the girl he loves while a weak nephew of a millionaire marries her, neglects her and eventually proves his utter unworthiness. An act of providence strips all the characters in the play to their fundamental fitness or baseness, at the same time that wickedness receives its just reward.

House Peters gives an exceptionally fine performance of the strong lumber camp foreman. Fritz Brunette is the girl who cannot see where her true love lives, and Allan Forrest is a polished cultivated weakling.

CASINO TODAY

It was an American invention which made possible the filming of the tremendous battle scenes of "The Loves of Pharaoh," in which thousands of invading Ethiopians sweep across the valley into the ancient Egyptian stronghold where thousands of invading Ethiopians fight for the defense of their sphinx and pyramids. "The Loves of Pharaoh" will be shown at the Casino theater today. Ernest Lubitsch insists that without this American invention, which he invariably uses for night photography, it would not have been possible for him to achieve such extraordinary photographic effects.

DOROTHY PHILLIPS

Dorothy Phillips, the star of many big dramas, will be seen next week at the Majestic theater in "Hurricane's Gal."

can's Gal." Miss Phillips has the role of the mistress of a smuggling schooner, ruling its rough crew with a ferocity that is softened by good humor. There is even a pistol in her pocket—and yet she has as her principal companion a rag doll, a monkey and a goat.

The picture is of the "thriller" variety, but it contains no "hokum." It is a tale of adventure that is logical and convincing from beginning to end and the producer has brought out the star's highest attainments as an emotional actress of pronounced capabilities.

As the regeneration of the girl takes place we find the "sea dog" finally enclosed in a painful San Francisco mansion, in striking contrast with her rough life at sea. The border sets are unusually exquisite creations.

NOTABLE STORY RETOLD IN FILMS AT RIVOLI LAST PART OF WEEK

"Fools First," a Marshall Neilan-First National attraction which is coming to the Rivoli theater on Thursday, is a thrilling story of thieves from the pen of Hugh McNair Kahler, noted Saturday Evening Post author.

Mr. Neilan depends upon dramatic action and the spirit of romance in bidding for public favor with this new production. Unusual situations created by Neilan, such as those which characterize all his offerings, furnish some real thrills and punch. Foremost among these is a scene in which a dead man takes part in a game of poker at the headquarters of the gang of crooks, right under the eyes of detectives who have come to run down a tip on the murder.

Another striking feature of this production is the fact that practically no interior sets were built for it, nearly all the scenes being photographed in the actual surroundings suggested by the story. Through the use of the new Neilan portable generator, it was possible to shoot interior scenes in a bank, a big hotel lobby, a night school, a large dance hall and various types of homes which figure in the story. As a result the backgrounds appear natural.

Among those who make up the notable cast are: Richard Dix, Claire Windsor, Charles Giltingwater, Raymond Griffith, George Seligman, Helen Lynch, Shannon Day, George Forman, Lon White and a dozen other well known players.

STRAUD TODAY

Admirers of that popular actor of stage and screen, William Farnum, particularly those who love a good western picture, will be afforded a rare treat at the Strand theater today when "Moonshine Valley" is shown.

The picture is one of the best that we have seen for many a day. Of course, Farnum holds the center of the stage throughout. His personality is always in evidence, and he has been favored with admirable support in the noble and captivating Dawn O'Day, the three-year old comedienne, who plays the part of the lost child and effects the bad man's (Farnum) reformation.

"MONTE CRISTO" WILL WIN NEW CONVERTS

It is generally conceded that the motion picture has not reached, to any degree of permanency, quite a number of persons in America. Just why it has not is more or less of a mystery. These few which the screen has not reached are numbered among the older folks who still doubt that motion pictures can portray a story in an interesting manner.

However, these doubting Thomases will have a new joy in witnessing the remarkable drama adapted from the famous story, "Monte Cristo," written by the immortal Alexandre Dumas. It is to have its local premiere at the Riviera Monday.

This story, which has been read by millions and which will ever remain as a classic of adventure, love, and romance, provides an excellent theme for a screen drama. "It is possible through the scope of the motion picture camera to carry the audience to France, the locale of the story, and there depict in a faithful way the stirring adventures of youth first known as Edmond Dantes."

Rail Accidents Decrease

Injuries in railway accidents were 5.8 per cent less during the first quarter of 1922 than during the same period of 1921.

DEAR MR. AND MRS. LA CROSSE:

Elsewhere on this page is an announcement of "The Masquerader," a great-motion picture made from a great book and a great stage play, in which appears a great actor—Guy Bates Post. You will, I am sure, like it when you see it at the Rivoli.

I write this, though, less to call your special attention to "The Masquerader" than to point out that this picture opens the regular fall and winter season at the Rivoli, and to assure you that with your support I am confidently counting upon keeping the Rivoli's programs throughout the season at the same top-notch level that is reached by the opening bill. "The Masquerader" is earnest of many good things to come for the patrons of the Rivoli.

Permit me also to call attention to the scale of prices. It is unusual in this or any other city to show pictures of the caliber of "The Masquerader" for thirty cents. Those of you who have followed the movies at all know that the work of famous stars and great directors demands the highest prices. The Rivoli must spend real money in amounts that, frankly, are rather terrifying, to procure such pictures for its patrons. But after a careful check-up I believe that we can continue to buy these best of first-run attractions and show them to you at a uniform price of thirty cents. I believe it because it is my experience that the best pictures at reasonable prices is a mighty attractive combination.

I may be wrong—the man whose judgment of what the public wants is unerring has yet to be born. But I'm going to back my judgment at the Rivoli this season, and let the result give the verdict. If, as I think, you folks will be glad to see the best feature pictures and the most noted actors of the screen at a pre-war price, you and the theater will have a most successful and enjoyable season. And I'm rather banking on the prediction that that's what we'll have.

Well—that's what I wanted to say. The Rivoli's 1922-23 season is on when "The Masquerader" flashes on the screen today. After you've seen that you'll know what to expect for the coming months. I hope—I know—that you'll be pleased.

Yours very truly,

NORMAL SCHOOLS GIVEN PRIORITY ORDER FOR COAL

Coal for State Institutions also Provided Under State
Committee's Order

MADISON, Wis.—Priority orders for coal to supply state normal schools and state institutions were issued against the Hullburt company of Green Bay today by the state fuel committee. Supplies are available to meet the needs of these institutions during September.

A letter to senators from northwest states by Donald D. Conn, chairman of the governor's committee of these states, advised that "if the most strenuous efforts of the government, coupled with the most drastic and complete co-ordination of all facilities, are put in force immediately, only enough coal can be put over the lakes to supply the most preferential needs of the northwest states."

He urged federal control over the distribution of coal after it has been dumped at Lake Erie ports. The state committee reports that fuel is arriving in sufficient quantities to meet the needs of industries and to supply state institutions.

His Reason

An English clergyman, nailing up a refractory creeper, observed a lad watching him with obvious interest. "Well, my young friend," he said, smilingly, "are you trying to get a hint or two on gardening?"

"No," said the youth.

"Are you surprised to see me working like this?"

"No. I do be waiting to see what a parson do say when he hammers his thumb."—Los Angeles Times.

OPEN LETTER TO J. D. BECK FROM WILLIAM B. NAYLOR

Tomah, Wis., Aug. 7, 1922.
Hon. J. D. Beck, Member of Congress, Washington, D. C.

My Dear Mr. Beck:

As a candidate for the high office of congressman from this district, and as such soliciting the support of the voters, I feel that you will in fairness be glad of an opportunity to advise us as to your position on certain matters of public interest which in all probability will in time come before congress and on which you will be called to vote.

Will you therefore through this same medium answer the following questions:

First: Do you favor the repeal of the Volstead act?

Second: If not the repeal of this act do you favor an amendment which will permit liquors to be sold with a higher alcoholic content than one-half of one per cent?

Third: If you answer this question "yes" what percentage would you favor?

Fourth: Do you favor a bill to legalize light wines and beer?

Fifth: If you answer this question "yes" how in your judgment could this be accomplished without the return of the old-time licensed saloon?

Sixth: Do you favor the absolute repeal or the amendment of the Esch-Cummins law?

Seventh: If you favor its repeal what would you substitute in its place?

Eighth: If you favor its amendment how and in what manner would you amend it?

Ninth: Do you favor and approve the teachings of the Nonpartisan league and would you favor the incorporation of the same into law?

Tenth: Do you approve Senator La Follette's latest idea whereby if the United States supreme court has declared a law unconstitutional congress may make it a law by merely passing it again?

Eleventh: If you answer this question "yes" let us assume that a law was passed by congress abolishing any church or school of religious thought. Let us assume further that the supreme court would undoubtedly pronounce such a law unconstitutional. Would you in that case favor the power in congress to make this a law by merely passing it a second time?

Twelfth: Assuming that you are still a strong exponent of the primary election law, in case you should receive the nomination for congress would you expect your opponent, Mrs. Kingsford, to abide the result of such primary?

Thirteenth: If defeated, will you abide the result of the primary or will you run independent?

Your early and candid reply to these questions will be appreciated not only personally but by many voters in this district.

Yours truly,

WM. B. NAYLOR.

 Miss Mildred Lockman Wins Tribune-Riyoli-Majestic Recognition Puzzle
COPICATES PROVE BIG MYSTERY TO ENTRANTS
 Miriam Cooper, No. 6, Was One Most Missed

JUST one person in La Crosse, out of some hundred or more who tried, named correctly all twelve of the movie stars whose faces in strange disguises were shown in the Go-to-the-top recognition contest which appeared in the Tribune on Wednesday.

Perhaps the reason was that the contest editor, just to make it hard, used two duplicates—of Wesley Barry and Dorothy Phillips. Pretty nearly every one guessed. Besides both names, there was a wide range of guesses about the second photo of Josephine. The contest editor is beginning to be of the opinion that running in duplicates was a low-down trick. But it's all over now and there were plenty of contestants who finished high in the list.

SCORES INJECTION OF GOVERNMENT AS ANARCHIST BREEDER
Letter Sent Out by Headquarters Appeals to Shopmen to Refrain from Violence
 NEW YORK.—The injunction proceedings brought by the government in the rail strike were termed "the best anarchist breeder that could be found" in a letter of instructions issued to striking shopmen Saturday by David Williams, secretary of the committee directing the strike in this district.
 The letter instructed the men to appeal to the public and other labor unions for help in order that their babies might not starve.
 "Advise all on strike to clean this rotten administration out of office for all time," continued the letter, ending with the exhortation: "Above all things keep your heads and do not resort to violence."

WORLD RENOWNED GEORGIA MAGNET ON RIVIERA VODVIL BILL
 Annie Abbott, who has appeared before the crowned heads of the world, will be the feature attraction on the vodvil bill at the Riviera this afternoon and evening. Miss Abbott is known as "The Little Georgia Magnet." She is not a strong woman, but a refined little lady of seven stone weight who baffles the strongest men. She can lift ten men, but ten men cannot lift her. In this display of ability no muscular strength is used or no external means of assistance. This is positively the best piece of artistry or any vodvil stage.
 The two De Buns present a comedy novelty aerial act which is full of pep as well as artistic. Some very clever comedy stunts are the chief attraction in this act.
 Harry E. Hill, the noted comedian will entertain for twelve minutes with funny jokes and songs. There is not one minute throughout this entire performance that is not filled full of mirth provoking comedy.

 Gans and Perkins, the two mammas. They are a sure fire hit with their southern melodies and clever comedy talk.
 Paul Kleist and Company appear in "The Land of Dreams" an European novelty that surpasses anything ever presented here. Special scenery and lighting effects make this a very pleasing and beautiful novelty.
 The feature picture to be shown in conjunction with the Shubert vaudeville is Elaine Hammerstein in "Under Oath." A story of circumstantial evidence and its strange proceedings.
 Pathe News and Literary Digest will round out the program.

STAGE QUALIFYING FLIGHT FOR COLMAN TROPHY SATURDAY

Emil Neimeyer Registers Low qualifying Score by Turning in a 79

UNUSUAL INTEREST MANIFEST IN ANNUAL GOLF TOURNEY

Finals to be Played off on Saturday, Sept. 9

THE qualifying rounds for the Colman Cup flight and the September Scratch were staged at the La Crosse country club Saturday afternoon. Emil Neimeyer, who has not won the championship since the season of 1912, came through Saturday with the low qualifying score of 79 while R. L. Thompson got inside with a 95.

George Gordon registered the lowest mark in the September Scratch qualifying flight with a 90. Holcomb, following, had a 91, and by a 115, "Cotton" Holcomb, who has taken up golf just this season, was the only contestant in the Scratch flight who failed to qualify. Those intimately acquainted declare that a special prize will be donated to the new golfer.

Unusual Interest

More than the usual interest has been manifested in the Colman cup play this season. Van Aulen, present holder of the title, who has six times been the winner of the trophy, is out defending the cup again this season. He has the distinction of winning the cup on each of the six occasions he has attempted it.

With Neimeyer registering low in the qualifying flight Saturday, there were many who were inclined to believe that the 1912 champion was due for a come-back this year. Neimeyer was awarded a prize of a half dozen golf balls for his qualifying mark.

Finals Set

The first round of the September Scratch play will be run off Monday morning at 9 o'clock, the second round starting at 1:30. A final luncheon for the contestants will be served at 12 o'clock. The semi-finals will be played on Wednesday, Sept. 7, at 9 o'clock. On Saturday, Sept. 9, the 26-hole finals are to be played, together with the Colman Cup finals.

Following are the pairings:
E. Neimeyer plays A. A. Pasty.
A. E. McKelton plays A. J. Jones.
H. K. Holley plays A. J. Jones.
A. Lee plays A. J. Jones.
Geo. Van Aulen plays E. J. Fisher.
F. L. Koppelman plays E. J. Fisher.
Frank Schwalbe plays W. D. McIntyre.

September scratch:
George Gordon plays T. H. Spencer.
K. E. Salter plays S. Barnham.
J. P. Funks plays Roy. Rawlinson.
H. H. Moran plays E. Fairbairn.
H. J. Hirschheimer plays E. J. Stone.
Arthur Schwabe plays E. W. Shoen.
C. Van Stenwick plays Harry Watkins.
H. M. Curtis plays W. W. Holcomb.

CARDS LOSE FINAL GAME TO PITTSBURGH ON SATURDAY, 9-5

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—St. Louis lost its final game to Pittsburgh Saturday, 5 to 3. The victory gave the Pirates two of the three games of the series. Timely hitting, coupled with poor pitching, accounted for the victory. The locals used four pitchers.

Roger Hornsby, who has thirty-third home run in the sixth off Brown. This was the victory of the Pirates. The Cardinals departed tonight for Indianapolis, leaving Haines, Black, Bottomly and Smith at home.

The latter two have severe colds. Funks is suffering from a sore leg and Haines has a touch of pleurisy. Score: St. Louis, 3; Pittsburgh, 5. Batteries—Brown, Carlson and Schmidt; Sharlet, Pfeffer, Bartlett, Portillo and Ainsmith.

BROWNS WITHIN HALF GAME OF LEADERS BY TROUTING TIGERS

DETROIT, Mich.—St. Louis climbed a half game closer to first place Saturday by defeating Detroit, 5 to 4, while the Yankees were broken down in a double-header with Philadelphia. The winning run came in the eighth on Ford's double. Stiers singled and Marcus sacrificed. It was the thirteenth consecutive game in which Stiers has hit safely. Cobb was put out of the game in the third inning for a dispute with Empire Guthrie. Score: St. Louis, 5; Detroit, 4. Batteries—Koop, Truette and Seaver; Oldham, Johnson and Bassler.

LAUNDRYMEN COME BACK AT STANDARD OIL COMPANY, 6-3

After a thorough drubbing at the hands of the Standard Oil last week, the Laundrymen came back Friday evening and trimmed them to the tune of 6 to 3.

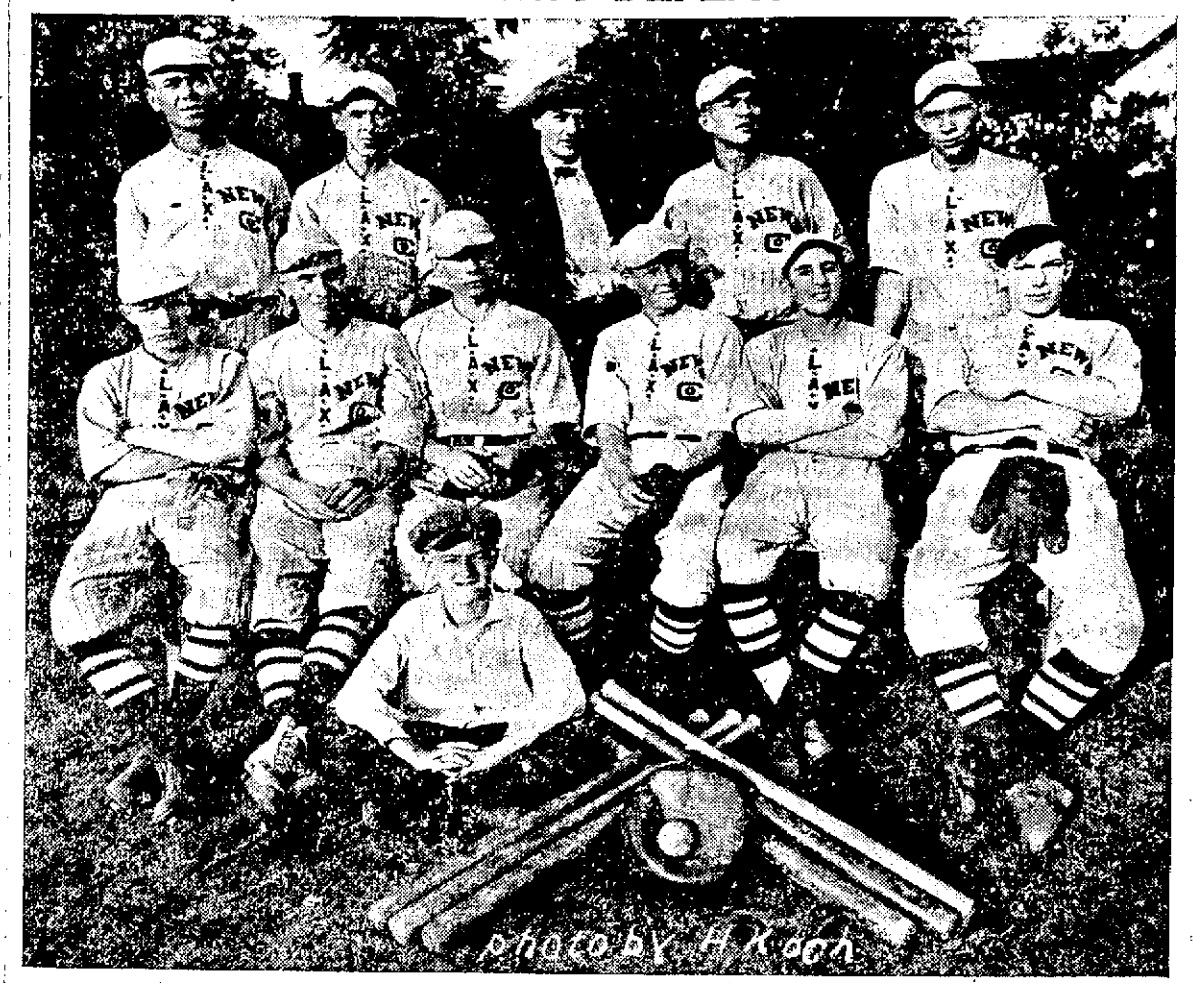

A spectacular feature of the game was the two strops by Selbo, one in the bread basket and the other in the snout.

Batteries: Laundryman, Tump and Stellick; Standard Oil, Selbo and Johnson.

ARMSTRONG WINS
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Joe Armstrong of St. Paul won the singles title in the state tennis tournament here today, defeating Henry Norton, Minneapolis, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

Marguerite Davis, St. Paul, captured the women's championship, winning from Eleanor Arneson, Minneapolis, 6-1, 6-1.

Above is a group of huskies which represents the La Crosse News Company Junior baseball team. The club is a member of the La Crosse Outdoor Sports Association Junior League, in which league the team stands in second place.

To the La Crosse News Co. team goes the credit of handing the Dahl's Ford's the first defeat of the season, rather the first defeat in history. This feat was accomplished July 24 at Elson, the final count being 2 to 1.

The club has played twenty-five games to date, winning 13, losing 2 and losing 10. In league competition the team has played 12 games, of which they have won 7, lost 4 and tied one. The team has scored 128 runs against their opponents 118.

The team's batting average is .251, with Newman, star hurler, leading his team-mates with an average of .306.

Following is the list of games in order as they were played by the La Crosse News company:

CHURCH ATHLETIC LEAGUE IS RAPIDLY WORKING IN SHAPE

Plan Enlargement of Program to Afford Opportunity for all to Join

ATHLETIC CENSUS OF ALL CHURCHES TO BE TAKEN

Schedules to be Worked Out
Soon as Possible

The Church Athletic League is rapidly rounding into shape for its fall and winter work. An enlargement of its program is planned in order that all of the boys and men of the churches may have an opportunity to develop better bodies, and that all may enjoy the fellowship of the league.

An athletic census of the churches that are going to participate in the league is the first item of the opening program. A card has been prepared that will be distributed to all participating churches this week. Each boy and man of the church and congregation will then check the sports that he is interested in, and willing to engage in for the sake of his church. These will be carefully compiled by the officers of the league, so that as soon as possible the schedules may be arranged.

Among the sports planned for the fall and winter are bowling, volleyball, basketball, indoor baseball, billiards, pool, checkers, chess, indoor truck meets, swimming, and horse shoe pitching. If there are any churches in the city which were not in the league last year and desire to enter for the coming season, they may learn the requirements for league membership by telephoning the Y. M. C. A.

The Church Athletic League gives an opportunity for any Church in the city—which meets the league requirements—to have an institutional department for its work. The Y. M. C. A. throws wide open its doors, and under the skilled supervision of its secretaries the league carries on its work. Better bodies mean better men, let's get

All Set For Big Bouts On Monday Night

Tommy Taylor was the first of the outside fighters to arrive in the city to train for his bout here Labor Day under the auspices of the Roy L. Vingers post of the American Legion. He got here in time to work out with Jimmy Gill Saturday afternoon. Sammy Craden, who is scheduled to appear in the hempen square with Taylor Monday night in the ten round final of the Legion's boxing show, came in from Milwaukee on a later train.

The fighters will work out Sunday at the Old Style Inn, where a room has been provided for them. Walter Weld, chairman of the boxing committee for the local post, announced that the fighters will be weighed in and examined at three o'clock Monday afternoon in Dr. R. E. Flynn's office in the State Bank building.

Reports from the camp of George Grover, who is pitted against Jimmy Gill in the six round semi-final bout, indicate that he is in good shape and prepared to put forth his best stuff in Monday's battle. This fight is attracting more local interest than any other on the card. Both are La Crosse men, and both have a host of training followers.

Jimmy Van La Crosse meets Charley Levine of Milwaukee in the four round preliminary, and Joe Burns of La Crosse is matched with Billy Becker of Hokah in the other. All four of these men have successful ring records, and the bouts are evenly matched, so good fights can be expected. The time for the bouts has been set for 8:30 Monday evening, at Yeomen Hall.

REDS WALLOP CUBS GET 21 HITS AND WIN EASILY, 17-5

CHICAGO, Ill.—Cincinnati came back at Chicago with a vengeance Saturday and pounded the local Cubbers for its 21 hits and won easily, 17 to 5. Casey, Fonseca, Roush and Duncan did heavy, slick work for the visitors. Duncan, who has been in the first and second innings, Score: Reds, 17; Cubs, 5. Batteries—Donohue and Winco; Kaufmann, Osborne, Stuleland and Farrell Wirtz.

NELSONS OPEN TWO-GAME SERIES WITH DUBUQUE SOX AT COPELAND PARK SUNDAY

THIS afternoon at Copeland park the Nelson club opens its two-game series with the Dubuque White Sox. The Sunday and Labor Day games were arranged for the local diamond early in the season.

The Dubuque aggregation, armed with three pitchers, Schluerer, George and Forkes, will leave at 6:50 and is due to arrive in La Crosse at 10 o'clock over the Burlington road. Both the Sunday and Monday games will start promptly at 3 o'clock.

Strong Independent Club

The invasion of the Sox for two games in La Crosse is an event to which local fans have looked forward since the first announcement that the club was coming here. The club has a long standing reputation of being one of the best independent teams in the middle west and should offer a treat to customers of the national pastime here this afternoon.

In bringing the Dubuque team for two attractions, the Nelson club has gone to considerable expense, perhaps one which will equal the total receipts of the grand stand. To assure further efforts in bringing teams of this caliber to the city, the management must necessarily have the co-operation of baseball supporters, the fans. This co-operation, in the first instance, is measured by what the game is worth in actual cash.

Shaw to Pitch

Jim Shaw, who performed well against Winona Legions last week, will shab for the Nelsons in the opening game. Odenwald, 19-year-old star of Hudson, will perform in the second. Odenwald is a strikout pitcher, from all reports received here.

Following is the lineup and batting order of the Dubuque White Sox: Young, cf; Meyers, c; C. Schluerer, 1b (manager); L. Schluerer, 3b; Altman, rf; Selander, lf; McDonough, ss; Palmer, 2b; J. Schluerer, p; George, p; and Forkes, p.

AUSTRALIA'S QUEST FOR DAVIS CUP NOT IN VAIN; TILDEN AND RICHARDS DEFEATED IN GREAT BATTLE SATURDAY

FOREST HILLS, N. Y.—By The Associated Press.—Australia's quest for the Davis cup, emblematic of the world's tennis championship, has not been in vain, regardless of the final outcome of Monday's play. The work of Pat O'Hara Wood and Gerald Patterson in the doubles match, when they defeated William T. Tilden II and Vincent Richards, 6-4, 6-0 and 6-3, Saturday, will stand in the annals of American tennis as one of the greatest exhibitions ever witnessed on the continent. As a result of their victory, the score stands Saturday night two matches to one in favor of the United States.

Defeated three sets to one by the same combination at Boston on Monday for the United States championship the Antipodeans came back Saturday on the courts of the West Side club here and literally tore the American team apart.

No greater display of team tennis in all its multiple requirements has been seen since Norman E. Brookes and Anthony Wilding, the famous Australian racket masters won a similar match on the same turf in 1914. Incidentally, it was the first time since the year that Australian players have won a match from the United States in Davis cup play.

The challenging combination was simply invincible Saturday. Wood and Patterson so completely outplayed Tilden and Richards that the latter appeared almost in the light of novices by comparison. Certainly as team partners, they played in the light of strangers.

Manuel Alonzo of Spain defeated Zenzo Shimizu of Japan in a two-set exhibition match, 7-5, 6-2. Both men played brilliantly. Singles play will be resumed Monday with Tilden playing Wood and William M. Johnston, facing Patterson. To take the Davis cup back to Australia, the Antipodeans must win both matches.

OPENING SKIRMISH OF NATIONAL AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP TOURNAMENT ON SATURDAY

BROOKLINE, Mass.—The opening skirmish of the golfing battle of Brookline—18 holes of medal play toward the 36 holes on which qualification will be based—was fought out in the national amateur championship tournament Saturday with old stars and new stars of this country and Great Britain among the leaders at the close of play. The scoring was lower on the average than in any previous national play.

Out in front of the field of 149 starters was a familiar figure, Robert A. Gardner of Chicago, winner of the title in two years, the first time more than a decade ago, and runner-up in two other years. His 71 over the course stood alone.

Passing him for the opening day's honors were representatives of two other groups of competitors—Marcus A. Greer of Philadelphia, formerly of Quebec, and W. B. Torrance of Edinburgh-Burgess, best of the British team Saturday. They had 72.

Robert T. Jones, Jr., the Atlanta boy who is the hope of the south, played himself into a good position with a 73, where he was tied by Jesse Sweetser, metropolitan champion, and John G. Anderson, also of New York, twice runner-up in these tournaments. Jones also marked himself among the field by an act of courtesy.

Addressing the ball on the 17th green, he seemed unusually deliberate, missed his first put of three feet, then holed out. He directed that he be given five. The scorer said he thought it was a four. Jones said he felt rather certain the ball had moved slightly. It was suggested that he might have been mistaken, as no one else saw it as he addressed it, but Jones insisted that he be charged with a five. In the course of his 18 holes Saturday he was never off the fairway or greens until the 18th hole.

Chick Evans, Jesse Guilford, Cyril J. H. Tolley and J. J. Reade had 74's. George F. Aulbach of the Boston public links, runner-up at Toledo last week, had a 75.

GERTRUDE EDRLIE SETS NEW WORLD'S 440 YARD RECORD

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. B.—Miss Gertrude Edrlie, of the Women's Swimming association, New York, long distance swimming champion, established a new world's 440-yard record for women Saturday in winning the National A. A. U. championship over that distance. Miss Edrlie's time was six minutes, 1-5 second, 17-3-5 seconds faster than the former mark held by Miss Helen Wainwright of New York.

EXPECT FAST TIME IN BICYCLE RACES HERE LABOR DAY

Twenty-nine of La Crosse's Fastest Riders Have Entered Event Here

MANY LOCAL MERCHANTS DONATE PRIZES FOR EVENT

Races to Start at 9:30 Monday Morning

With twenty-nine of La Crosse's fastest riders entered, the bicycle races to be staged at the county fair grounds on Labor Day promise to be one of the most interesting ever held here. The races will start at 9:30 in the morning.

Promoter Frank Muth states that a majority of the contestants have been working out preparatory to the event and expected some exceptionally close finishes and fast times made on the half-mile track. Local merchants have been liberal in donating prizes for the race winners. It was announced.

The officials of the race will be: Frank Muth, starter; William Johnson, judge; Otto Enders, timer.

Following are the races to be staged:

One mile senior novice race—First prize, Soler gas bicycle lamp, Smith's Bicycle Shop; second, one cap, Deerfingers; third, one box candy, Sam Marks.

Public Debate

"FOR SHERIFF"

Editor Tribune and Leader-Press:

While the present occupants of the La Crosse county sheriff's office (I use the plural advisedly because it takes two to play the endless chain game) have had all the chances in the world to entrench themselves and get ready for the battle which is now imminent, first by using the words "again" in a again, off again, on again, tactics whereby they may be able to score another victory and thus strengthen their line of defense, the "endless chain" to such an extent as to make it almost impregnable, and by these peculiar tactics would be enabled to perpetuate their tenure of office indefinitely.

The above is, in part, an article published in the Tribune and Leader-Press and signed by Mr. L. H. Engle. The article was published during the campaign of Ben Lund for sheriff and refers to the hold that Ritter and Webber had for six years on the office of sheriff. We do not see any reason why the gentlemen who are holding the office today should attempt to hold it for six years, as did their predecessors whom Mr. Engle scored in the above article.

E. G. LEE.

A LETTER TO GORDON

Editor, Tribune.

Dear Sir: Enclosed is an open letter to one of the candidates for district attorney, which raises issues upon which the writer would like to ascertain the candidate's position:

La Crosse, Wis., Sept. 2, 1922.

Major Stanley Gordon, La Crosse, Wis.

Dear Sir: I am a laboring man and a member of a labor union and it has been rumored that certain leaders of organized labor are favorable toward your candidacy for district attorney, and toward that end have been doing some work in your behalf basing their reasons for supporting you upon your representation that you are not friendly to the so-called 44 or stalwart faction of the republican party. I am writing this letter for the purpose of inquiring:

First—Are you in favor of organized labor and to the candidacy of Hon. Robert M. La Follette for United States senator, and Hon. John Blaine for governor?

Second—If you are a La Follette progressive now, how long have you been such?

Third—If you are a friend of labor, would you resign your position as Major of the National guard in the event of serious labor troubles in this county and a calling out of the troops?

In view of the position your family has taken in politics in this community heretofore, notably in the Ike Stephenson campaign, I would like to have full and direct answers to the above questions.

I am heading a copy of this letter to the La Crosse Tribune and Leader-Press for publication and would appreciate a prompt answer.

Yours truly,

THEO. H. MARSHALL, 420 North Fourth Street.

YANK PAIR SET OUT TO SWIM THE ENGLISH CHANNEL

DOVER, England.—By The Associated Press.—Charles Teth and Sam Richards of Boston and Henry Sullivan of Lowell, Mass., set out Saturday night to swim across the English channel. They braved the strong tide, cold water and a stiff wind, but all were confident of being able to add the cross channel achievement to the long list of their country's athletic triumphs.

Pete Says:

If your Boiler's too small, you will pay it with coal and you won't keep track of the cost. You will shovel and poke in the blinkers and soot until all of your patience is lost. You are hot enough then till you cool off again but the baby and mamma are not. When the baby is sick you rush to the phone and leave orders for Doc pretty quick, but the cure of it all is no wonder at all—send for Pete, he will turn the trick.

THE QUEST OF THE IMPOSSIBLE

Are you looking for the impossible trade—the bargain so good—so sure a clinch—that you will never find it?

The man who takes advantage of a fair, legitimate trade—sets it earning dividends in a lively way, realizes the benefit that the sucker after the IMPOSSIBLE matters himself he MAY ATTAIN if he waits long enough.

One gets his in the Bank, the other has it in his mind—that's the difference.

Don't wait for the IMPOSSIBLE. Utilize some of the good trades which are coming up every day, we have plenty of them. Here is a specimen, $7000 for a two-flat apartment, five rooms up and six rooms down, and a five-room cottage on the same lot. The cottage and upper flat are rented so as to bring $500 per year. Owner occupies the lower flat, $3000 will handle this. The rents will pay the taxes, a payment on the unpaid principle, and you have your own rent free.

IT'S A HARD WAY TO TIPPERARY

The way to Tipperary is longer now than it was when the boys in the trenches sang about it. That, because of the fighting that has been going on. Here a bridge to Tipperary town is shown destroyed, but the boy with the donkey and milk cart will get there.

INDIVIDUALITY IN EYEGLASSES

Properly fitted glasses should not only correct your defects of vision and stay comfortably on your nose—they should also have a pleasing appearance. Particular people are as careful of the style of the mounting and the size and shape of their lenses as of the cut of their clothes. No two people have exactly the same contour of features and if you expect to "look well in glasses" you must have them adapted to your individual requirements. This matter of appearance receives due consideration here. We not only give you lenses that will correct your defects of vision, but we cut them specially to fit each individual face. This is just part of our idea of service and costs you nothing extra.

HOLD GIRL IN JAIL TO KEEP HER FROM FOLLOWING "SHIEK"

Father Fails in Attempt to Reason Girl Out of Determination to Join Hindu

MADISON, Wis.—The young University of Wisconsin co-ed who, on Thursday night, attempted to leave her home in Madison to join "Rajah Hindaramath Lemma," a Hindu fortune-teller, spent her second night in jail Friday and continued her sojour there Saturday while her father determined what to do to restrain his daughter from following the Hindu, who styles himself a "shiek." He was communicating with the mother of the girl to find whether she believed her daughter should be confined to keep her from leaving home. Reason is said to have been of little avail to alter her decision to join the fortune teller.

Just where the "rajah" is, police here are unaware. He left town after paying a $44 fine for fortune telling without a license.

That's All
"Heaven is not distant," said a recent lecturer. We have always heard that it is only one flight up.

GET A PAIR OF TROUSERS

TO MATCH UP WITH YOUR ODD COAT

We have with us a representative of famous manufacturers of woollens who claims there is no use discarding the coat of the suit you liked so well and that fit you so perfectly, simply because the trousers are worn out.

He can match a new pair of trousers to any kind of a coat, regardless of color, pattern or stripe.

Send us a vest or sample and you will be surprised to see how well he can match your coat at a most reasonable price.

MORGAN GANFIELD

FOR GOVERNOR

FOR U. S. SENATOR

Don't let a minority decide the election! Don't stay at home on Primary Day. Vote for the winners. Go to the Polls. Go early. Wisconsin is right at heart—when all the voters express their convictions, Wisconsin votes right.

VOTE SEPT. 5th!

Go to the Polls in the morning. Don't let your neighbors stay at home—take them along.

Vote to keep your home, your farm, your job. Don't turn them over to socialism.

Vote for Ganfield and give a knock-out blow to socialism.

Don't sell your Americanism for a mess of socialism by staying at home.

Go to the Polls Early!

THIS IS YOUR TICKET TAKE IT TO THE POLLS

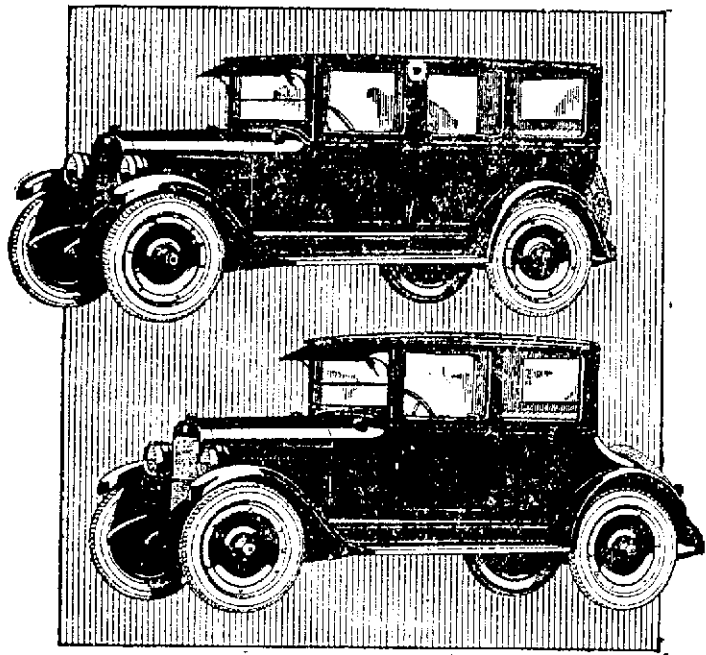

Governor	WILLIAM J. MORGAN	X
Lieutenant Governor	RILEY S. YOUNG	X
Secretary of State	MARTIN R. PAULSEN	X
State Treasurer	HENRY JOHNSON	X
Attorney General	JOHN F. BAKER	X
United States Senator	WILLIAM A. GANFIELD	X
Member of Congress	A. C. KINGSFORD	X
Member of Assembly 1st District	FRANK H. FOWLER	X
Member of Assembly, 2nd District	R. W. DAVIS	X

This is the year when women should not stay at home. There never has been a timewhen so great a responsibility rested on the women of the state. Not one woman in the state should fail to vote.

Vote for Morgan. He does things. He will be the people's governor.

There are votes enough in the state to elect Morgan, Ganfield and the whole state ticket by big majorities. Get that vote to the polls.
